NO SABOTAGE IN LONDON EXPLOSIONS

Officials Deny Blasts Work Of German Agents

By HOMER JENKS
British United Press. Exclusive Cable to The Edmonton Bulletin.

LONDON, Jan. 19.—The Home Office announced today that there was no reason to suspect sabotage in the explosion yesterday in the Royal gun powder works at Waltham Abbey.

The statement coincided with action of secret service operatives of the War Office intelligence service and Scotland Yard's crack criminal investigation division in taking emergency precautions at war factories throughout Great Britain against possible sabotage attempts.

Reports circulating before the home office statement was issued had said that there had been three attempts at sabotage at the Waltham Abbey works.

Fire of mysterious origin occurred during the night at an electrical-engineering factory near the Waltham works.

A boiler in the heating plant of a joinery works at Croydon exploded today, causing rumors of a serious accident. The explosion could be heard half a mile away but there were no casualties. Two brick storage sheds were demolished and debris was thrown 50 yards. Police and firemen went to the scene as a precautionary measure.

CLOSE WATCH

Because of the explosion at Waltham Abbey a close watch was being maintained at the Woolwich arsenal, Britain's largest arms manufacturing plant. The arsenal was

Books For Dominion Debentures Held Open For Small Investors

OTTAWA, Jan. 19.—Books on the $200,000,000 war loan, oversubscribed in the first two days of this week, will be closed across Canada at five p.m., local time, Friday, the Bank of Canada announced last night.

Although total subscriptions at the close of business Tuesday night amounted to more than $248,000,000, the books were held open to enable the smaller investers in outlying communities to subscribe to the loan.

The bank said this gesture had been appreciated and there was an overwhelming response by small subscribers in the last two days. At least 50 per cent of the total 3½ per cent loan likely will be held by investors of amounts of $5,000 and less.

OTTAWA, Jan. 19.—Subscriptions of $50,000 or more to the Dominion's first loan of the second Great War as announced today by the Bank of Canada included: Province of Alberta Workmen's Compensation Board, Edmonton, $50,000.

Books Close Here At 5 P.M. Friday

Friday is the last day for Edmonton and district citizens to put in applications for bonds of the Dominion of Canada First War Loan as the books for the loan will be closed at 5 p.m. today.

Although the loan throughout Canada is well over-subscribed, the federal minister of finance is leaving the books open in order to allow as many people as possible to participate and, in making allotments, buyers of small-denomination bonds will have first preference.

Edmonton's total now is well past the $2,000,000 mark and subscriptions are still coming in.

Prepayments of city taxes reached a new peak today with a total of $1,101,492, it was reported by City Assessor Thomas Walker. Last year the total was $1,069,540.

The total was swelled to break the former record by a last minute payment-on-account of $60,000 by The T. Eaton Company, Western, Limited.

Delegate Says War Emergency Causes Prevailing Situation

U. F. A. convention tabled a resolution which declared the provincial price spread committee "is not working in the interests of the consumer in allowing the recent rise in the cost of flour, sugar and bread" to take place, after a long debate at its Friday morning session.

One delegate said he could not see why bread should be five or six cents in Vancouver, and nine cents in Alberta cities, when the flour has to be sent to the coast from the prairies.

J. K. Sutherland, Hanna, U.F.A. director, urged that the resolution be tabled, "because it might complicate the future". He said many changes might have to be effected due to war necessities and the resolution, if adopted, might become a bar to effective action.

Another delegate said the price spreads committee had allowed

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, Jan. 19. — Twenty thousand foreign volunteers now are fighting in Finland, at least three-fourths of them from Sweden, it was estimated today.

Guns and airplanes have been sent from sympathetic countries, but the number of them cannot be estimated. There also have been substantial contributions of hospital units, medical supplies, food, clothing, skis, knapsacks, sporting rifles, revolvers, canteens and money.

The number of volunteers constitutes about one division. The number of anti-aircraft guns and airplanes has not been enough to do anything substantial toward driving off Soviet bombers.

British United Press Exclusive Cable to The Edmonton Bulletin

STOCKHOLM, Jan. 19. — Reports reaching Stockholm from the Salla front in Finland indicated today that by means of their present operations the Finns have parried the last threat by Russian columns toward the top of the Gulf of Bothnia—a movement intended to cut the vital Finland-Sweden railroad—cut the country in two—and stop the flow of supplies into Finland from abroad.

Observers in Stockholm said that by the time the Russians had reached almost to the half-way point across narrow mid-Finland — they were in a dangerously extended position along a single road, many miles from their main supply base on the Leningrad-Murmansk railroad.

After concentrating their forces, the Finns drove against the long Russian column from deep forests

BALLOON NAVY EXTENDS OVER U. K. COASTLINE

LONDON, Jan. 19—A "balloon navy," seagoing adaptation of the "balloon barrage" which dots the skies over London, has been extended to almost the entire British coastline.

This is part of the constant expansion of home defences to meet a possible extension of Nazi aerial attack.

Mobile marine balloons, trailing cables, are being extended every week to protect strategic coastal points. These balloons are attached by cables to barges and other ships, some of which are able to proceed quickly to any position.

In a special message of greeting sent to the U.F.A. convention, and read during a farm dance program Thursday night attended by 700 delegates, Mr. Wallace said, "the common interests" between American and Canadian farmers must endure.

The written message was broadcast to Canada and the United States. J. K. Sutherland, U.F.A. director, had arranged the program, and the message was addressed to him.

ALL HOPE FOR RECOVERY OF BORAH FADES

By HARRY LYON
British United Press Exclusive Cable to The Edmonton Bulletin

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19—Senator William Edgar Borah, 74, Republican statesman from Idaho for 33 years and well-known throughout the world for his advocacy of American isolationism, was dying today. His doctors had given up all hope.

Borah was stricken with a cerebral hemorrhage Tuesday morning. He has been in a coma ever since. His personal physician said there "was no hope whatever."

The American capitol, in which he has been a familiar figure since he first reached the U.S. Senate in 1907, hoped for a miracle and his recovery. Out of tribute to the man they affectionately called "The Idaho Lion" officials virtually abandoned their congressional work. Senators and congressmen—many of whom have disagreed vigorously with Borah on national and international affairs — walked through the capitol corridors with tears in their eyes.

British United Press Exclusive Cable to The Edmonton Bulletin

COPENHAGEN, Jan. 19 — The Danish paper Berlingske Aftenavis reported today that a Russian army attempt to outflank the Finnish Mannerheim line on the Karelian isthmus had failed and that Red troops under General Gregori Stern were retiring after an unsuccessful attack near the town of Kitelae on the north shore of Lake Ladoga.

Minions Of Stalin Face U. S. Ouster

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19—The question of severing diplomatic relations with Russia bobbed up again today as chairman Key Pittman of the United States senate foreign relations committee asked the state department whether it wished to comment on a proposal by Senator Arthur Vandenberg, Michigan Republican.

Vandenberg proposed that the Senate call upon President Roosevelt to inform it whether the Soviet government had lived up to promises made in 1933 when the United States extended diplomatic recognition to the Soviet.

Vandenberg told reporters he was confident that, if the Senate approved his resolution, the information furnished in response to it would be such that action would be forced on the question of severing relations.

Pittman, Nevada Democrat, said he agreed with Vandenberg that Russia had violated its 1933 pledges not to support political organizations in America and not to interfere with the religious worship of Americans in Russia, as well as its promise to pay for confiscated American property.

RULING GIVEN ON APPEALS TO PRIVY COUNCIL

Court Decides Parliament Within Rights In Moving Abolition

OTTAWA Jan. 19—Parliament is within its rights in moving to abolish appeals to the judicial committee of the privy council from the judgments of Canadian courts in civil and constitutional matters, a majority of the supreme court of Canada decided today.

The court was asked its opinion as to whether parliament was competent to enact a bill such as that presented last session by Hon. C. H. Cahan (Cons., St. Lawrence-St. George). It answered in the affirmative with two judges dissenting, one completely and one in part.

Chief Justice Sir Lyman Duff was with the majority which also included Mr. Justice A. B. Hudson, Mr. Justice Patrick Kerwin and Mr. Justice T. Rinfret.

TWO DISSENTERS

The dissenters were Mr. Justice O. F. Crockett and Mr. Justice H. H. Davis. The former held the Cahan Bill wholly beyond the powers of the federal parliament.

The case was one of the most important constitutional issues to come before the court in recent years.

If parliament, perhaps after a review of today's decision by the judicial committee of the privy council, enacts the Cahan Bill the supreme court of Canada will be

20,000 Poles Are Executed by Germans Since Nazi War Machine Ravaged Country

PARIS, Jan. 19. — Authoritative Polish quarters last night estimated the Nazis had executed a minimum of from 15,000 to 20,000 Poles since they swept across Poland last autumn.

In addition tens of thousands of Poles and Jews have been shuttled into ghettos, placed in concentration camps or sent to German factories for obligatory labor service, these sources charged.

They said the Germans had forbidden authorities to post up death notices on city buildings—an old Polish custom—on the ground such action defaces the structures. Polish quarters in Paris are convinced this move was designed to prevent the population from learning how many have died.

On Jan. 11 the Polish information centre here charged 6,000 Polish men and women had been shot by

Nazi Base At Sylt Provides Another Mystery Of War

By FRED BACKHOUSE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Jan. 19.—Sylt, Germany's base for mine-laying seaplanes, provided a new mystery of war today as Danish reports of violent anti-aircraft fire and explosions, and even of heavy fire of warships, brought authoritative denials from London that British aircraft or naval forces had been engaged in the area.

It was officially denied that R.A.F. planes had been over Sylt and it was also stated in London the French Air Force had not been sending there either.

Naval circles said they had no knowledge of any bombardment by British warships in the Sylt zone. A spokesman also ruled out a suggestion that the fleet air arm may have been in action.

PRACTICE SHELLING

It was pointed out here that the heavy gunfire heard may have been due to intense practice shelling by German artillery and anti-aircraft units. The Germans held many such exercises near the Friesian Islands before the war and may be continuing them now.

The latest report of a "raid" is the second from Denmark within eight days. Each time official denials that R.A.F. warplanes were involved have been issued by the air ministry.

The Danish dispatches, from Toendern, came 25 years to the day after the first German Zeppelins droned in from the North Sea to bomb England in the first Great War.

Meanwhile, in maritime warfare a German submarine was blamed for the loss of the British tanker Inverargle, 9,456 tons, which went down in flames off the southwest English coast Tuesday. The entire crew of 45 or 46 was believed to have perished. One Canadian, seventh Engineer C. W. Dixon of Liverpool, N.S., was reported to have gone down with the vessel. Others in the crew were seamen from the West Indies.

DETAILS KNOWN

It was only with a statement by the owners last night that details of the sinking became known. Hitherto the tanker had not been identified and the crew was reported to have escaped.

The cargo of an Italian steamship, the 4,427-ton Premuda, was saved today when the vessel was refloated from Goodwin sands and safely beached. She had run aground after colliding with a lightship yesterday night.

SUSPEND IMPORT

Apparently linked with Britain's economic war effort was a decision announced last night to suspend for three months import of Danish surplus cotton under a cotton-rubber barter deal.

According to the Toendern dispatches, the first attack on German sea bases was believed to have come about 6 p.m. (10 a.m. Thursday, E.S.T.). Only a half-hour after the aircraft fire was heard on the Danish coast, near Sylt and only 65 miles from Germany's Heligoland base.

FIVE BOMBERS

Three hours later Danish observer saw five bombers which they believed to be British flying over Sylt to the accompaniment of gunfire and five explosions which sounded like bombs.

Sylt has been raided several times by British aircraft engaged in "security patrol" to checkmate German mine-laying and scouting planes at their takeoff points.

The present aerial warfare with Germany is a far cry from the Zeppelin raids of a quarter century ago. This one in the skies is being fought with tremendously faster and more heavily armed planes, and diplomats have found no place in the struggle.

24 BOMBS DROPPED

On the night of Jan. 19, 1915, two of the lighter-than-air craft with which Germany proposed bombed eight towns along the Norfolk coast. Twenty-four bombs accounted for four deaths and injury of 16 persons.

Those raids gave birth to the blackout because the towns hardest hit were those which showed the most lights. Coastal defences were skimpy in those days.

Now—after 4½ months of the new war—Britain is armed not only with a strict blackout but clusters of fighting planes, anti-aircraft guns, sentinel balloons moored to barges and small boats offshore and balloon barrages inland.

Although most Britons still are "air raid conscious," fewer and fewer are carrying gas masks. One London air raid warden reported that of 16,000 persons passing a certain point one day, only 320 had gas mask kits.

A committee on national expenditures today announced appointment of a sub-committee representing the armed services, home defence, trade, agriculture and economic welfare.

SHIP SPACE NEEDED

Imports of surplus American cotton under the 1939 cotton-rubber barter deal will be halted for three months beginning in February, the supply ministry announced last night. Observers considered it likely that ship space was needed for importation of other materials.

Through the agreement, announced last June 28, the United States expects to exchange about $30,000,000 worth of surplus cotton for $36,000,000 worth of rubber. The extent of transactions thus far was not disclosed.

20,000 POLES EXECUTED BY NAZI MACHINE

German storm troopers at the town of Bydgoserz alone since fighting ended in Poland. All the surviving men of the town were shipped off to join Labor gangs in the Reich or other parts of Poland, the centre claimed.

If was reported here last Dec. 11 that 1,000 Poles were executed in Poznan province up to that date. Dispatches reaching here Wednesday said 500 Poles had been executed in the city of Poznan since the start of the new year.

Thousands also have been reported killed in Warsaw, Krakow, and other Polish cities now under the ironclad censorship regulations imposed by the Nazi invaders.

Wholesale eviction of the Polish population from many districts, especially those of Poznania, Pomerania, and Silesia, is being carried out with unheard of brutality. Polish country is charged, and all big properties owned by Polish landlords are being confiscated.

GIVING NO WARNING

More than 20,000 families—over 100,000 persons—were estimated to have been evicted from the city of Poznan. Most of these families had lived in the region for generations.

The method followed by the Germans, these sources said, is to expel all judges and lawyers one day, all railway workers another, postmen the next, and so on. Finally all Poles are ordered out of certain streets, and finally out of whole quarters of the city.

Poles evicted are given no warning, it was said. Gestapo agents arrive in the middle of the night and give Poles 15 minutes to dress and pack suitcases. They are allowed to take only a small amount of money and are packed on freight trains headed for Germany or for other parts of Poland.

TEXTS NOT AVAILABLE

Texts of the reasons for judgment written by the different judges were not immediately available.

Mr. Justice Davis took the view the Cahan bill would be within the powers of parliament if it were amended to provide that it should not affect the rights of any province in respect of any civil cause started in a provincial court and concerned solely with matters over which the provincial legislature had exclusive jurisdiction.

POSITION UPHELD

In effect the court upheld the position taken on the matter by the Manitoba government, supported by the Manitoba government and as against the position taken by the governments of British Columbia, Ontario, Nova Scotia and New Brunswick.

The four opposing provincial governments appeared at the hearing of the reference last June to test against the validity of the Cahan bill.

Manitoba submitted a brief supporting the Dominion's claim and the other provinces, namely, Alberta, Saskatchewan, Quebec and Prince Edward Island were not represented.

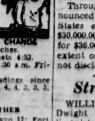

By an amendment to the consolidated rules of the supreme court, no assets of an estate can be distributed or paid during the war to any beneficiary or creditor who is an enemy alien. This amendment has been authorized in an amendment passed by the provincial cabinet and signed by His Honor Lieut.-Gov. J. C. Bowen. This clause has been inserted in grants of probate and administration following receipt of regulations from the secretary of state respecting trading with the enemy.

ONTARIO RAPS WAR EFFORTS OF DOMINION

Premier Hepburn Leads Attack On Policies Of Government

By NORMAN CAMPBELL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, Jan. 19.— Premier Mitchell Hepburn yesterday dramatically led Ontario's Liberal legislature into recorded condemnation of the "so little effort" of Canada's federal Liberal government in the prosecution of the war.

Faced by revolt among his own followers because of the almost-constant attacks in the legislature on Prime Minister Mackenzie King and his government, Premier Hepburn took the bit in his teeth, presented a hastily-prepared resolution and announced he was staking his political future on it. Defeat would have meant resignation. The resolution was adopted 44-10, nine of the premier's party voting against him.

TEXT OF RESOLUTION

Text of the resolution was:

"That the house has heard with interest the reports made by the Prime Minister and the leader of the Opposition of the result of their visit to Ottawa, to discuss war measures with the national government; and this house hereby endorses the statements made by the two members in question and joins with them in regretting that the federal government at Ottawa has made so little effort to prosecute Canada's duty in the war in the vigorous manner the people of Canada desire to see."

Every Conservative in the house, 18 of the 23 party members, followed their leader, Col. Drew, in voting for the resolution. Twenty-six Liberals voted for it and the nine dissentient Liberals were joined by two C.C.F. backs, Independent Liberal, (Toronto-Bellwoods), who a few minutes before had expressed sympathy with Premier Hepburn in whose government he was once attorney-general.

Before the premier announced there was to be a division, three Liberals had urged the legislature to leave war matters to Ottawa. Harold Kennedy (Toronto-Eglinton North), Fraser Hunter (Toronto-St. Patrick), and J. A. Habel (Cochrane North) escaped.

MEANT TO BE VITRIOLIC

Mr. Baker accused Col. Drew of being "vitriolic" in his criticism of the federal government. Such attacks as those by Col. Drew would do more to break down morale than German gas and shells, Premier Hepburn hadn't been vitriolic.

"I'd like to associate myself with the speech of the leader of the opposition," interjected Premier Hepburn. "If my speech wasn't vitriolic, I meant it to be."

"Your speech wasn't vitriolic," insisted Mr. Baker. "The speech of the Opposition leader was. Anyone in this house or the Dominion of Canada can make me believe these men at Ottawa are all traitors within the camp."

"I believe Mr. King harbors hatred in his heart for Ontario," said Mr. Hepburn, recalling federal refusal to permit export of power and other divergencies of interest. He said he believed Mr. King's hatred of Ontario rose from his failure to find a seat in Ontario.

"It is not a personal matter as far as I'm concerned and Mr. King," he said. "His significance protects him."

Dramatically the premier announced: "If this motion is defeated the only result will be for me to hand in my resignation if we don't reflect the overwhelming sentiment of the people of Ontario. I'm ready to take my political future in my hands."

The premier observed that three Liberals had risen to support Mr. King. "There may be more. I don't care. I stand firm on the statement he has not done his duty by his country and he never will. I know, I sat in the house with him for six years."

King Will Answer Criticism In House

OTTAWA, Jan. 19.—Prime Minister Mackenzie King said last night he will reserve his comments on the Ontario legislature's motion criticizing the Dominion government's war effort until parliament is in session.

"Believing that the proper time and place to discuss government policy with respect to Canada's war effort is when the representatives of the people from all parts of Canada are assembled in their parliament, I shall reserve until parliament is in session what I may have to say on that subject," he said.

"Parliament, as all are aware, meets a week from today. Meanwhile the government does not intend to permit Canada's war effort to be delayed or in any way sacrificed by fostering any controversy which does not permit of the most complete presentation and consideration of all relevant facts."

Aberhart Will Not Comment On Action

CALGARY, Jan. 19.—Commenting on the Ontario legislature's action deploring the Federal government's war effort, Premier William Aberhart stated in Calgary last night:

"The question of the efficient conduct of the war effort is a matter on which I do not wish to express an opinion at the present time."

The Premier's statement was endorsed by all the Alberta cabinet ministers at present in the city for the annual convention of the Alberta Social Credit League.

The aggregate wholesale value of cars and trucks in the United States in 1939 was $2,361,556,000.

friendship between Canada and the United States have been uninterrupted. Our two countries had a deep common interest in the democratic way of life. We have had a common interest in international trade.

"This has been particularly true of the farmers of our two countries. We realize that the war has changed the situation for the Canadian farmer, and that there are now vital points of difference between their problems and those of the farmers of the United States.

"But, fundamentally, common interests continue. When the war ends, problems of farmers in Canada and the United States producing for the British market are almost certain to return in full force.

FRIENDLY RELATIONS

"It will always be important, especially for the farmers of our two countries, to maintain close contact and friendly relations", Secretary Wallace's message concluded.

Other fraternal greetings were brought to the convention Thursday night at the Macdonald hotel by Lew Hutchinson, Calgary, Alberta delegate to the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation Grain Growers; Chris. Soviet Airplanes Again Terrorize Helsinki Folk

HELSINKI, Jan. 19.—Soviet airplanes bombed the Helsinki area again today while Finnish troops were hammering at Red army positions on the north central Salla front. The Russian planes dropped bombs in the outskirts of the Finnish capital on the east, west and north. No bombs fell in the centre of the city.

There were about 20 explosions in all, most of them coming from the direction of Porvoo. The motion of the Red planets could be heard northeast of the city, but despite the clear weather war correspondent Webb Miller said it was impossible to see them. All activity in Helsinki was tied up for two hours.

prices to rise slightly, instead of letting them skyrocket due to war conditions, was the attitude of the Alberta Hail Insurance Act so that surplus funds of any area shall be available for the payment in full of claims settled on a "pro rata basis and not yet paid in full."

The convention sent back another resolution for redrafting which asked the provincial government to remove "discrimination", by amending the Fuel Tax Act to permit of a rebate of the tax on all fuel oils, the use of which enters into the cost of farm production.

Another resolution tabled called for a new system of taxation. It said social services such as education and health should not be paid for by land taxes, which should be confined to cost of services benefiting the land.

Convention adopted a resolution pledging itself to use Alberta sugar exclusively, and to urge members of the U.F.A. to use it as much as possible. Federal government was urged in another motion to waive the sugar tax on beet sugar so as to encourage the erection of sugar beet factories in the irrigated areas of Alberta.

Alberta Rhodes Scholar Will Be Chosen Saturday

Alberta's Rhodes scholar for 1940 will be selected at a meeting of the Alberta selection committee to be held here on Saturday. The committee will be headed by Rt. Rev. Ralph Sherman, Bishop of Calgary. Other members of the committee are Mr. Justice T. M. Tweedie; C. B. Clarke, Calgary, manager of Toronto General Trusts; Dr. W. A. R. Kerr, President of the University of Alberta; Dean J. A. Weir, University of Alberta; Julian Garrett, Edmonton, and Ronald Maitland, secretary.

SOCIAL CREDIT PARTY RETAINS NOMINEE PLAN

discussion during the afternoon on campaign methods for the forthcoming election. He asked members of the audience to let him have suggestions for the campaign. He asked, as on Wednesday, that delegates put away pencils and paper and make no notes on the discussion.

Procedure for selection of the 1940 candidates was ratified, after attempts to change the constitution in this respect had failed.

Each constituency convention will name three to five proposed candidates. From this list, one candidate to contest the election will be chosen by the provincial executive in conjunction with the Social Credit board of management.

The board of management consists of an executive group chosen from a joint session of the social Credit League board of directors and the Alberta cabinet.

WANT LOCAL AUTHORITY

Delegates opposing this system wanted more power ascribed to the local authorities, so that charges of political favoritism in candidates could not be levelled at the Social Credit Party.

There was no move to have the candidate selected finally by a constituency convention, as is the usual practice in other parties. Several speakers pointed out that under the Social Credit system of selection was more democratic than the "old line parties."

Finally, the convention endorsed the plan used at the 1935 election. They decided to emphasize, however, that the candidate and the main power in actually naming the constituency's standard bearer.

The resolution regarding the Alberian stated that many Social Crediters had bought shares in the newspaper on the understanding that the Alberian would be a Social Credit organ.

CLAIM UNFAIR TREATMENT

Since that time the Alberian had declared itself to be an independent newspaper. Many Social Crediters thought they had not been fairly treated in this respect.

There it asked that the matter be brought to the attention of the attorney-general's department, or some similar body, and that such a body survey the possibilities of such shares being sold at par value.

It was decided to contest the 1940 election on the same platform as in 1935, Mr. Low spokesman said "some of the problems will be approached from slightly different angles."

The greatest menace to any political movement is political opportunity or opportunists." Premier Aberhart told the convention. "You're bound to win if you can keep that ugly creature out of your midst."

INSPIRATIONAL MESSAGE

His address, titled "Reaching for the Stars," was an attempt to give his listeners an inspirational message "before we go into the field of battle," he said.

"Our government must have loyalty to you people as well as technical knowledge," said Premier. "Not one of them will lower it his flag in this fight, and we want you to be the same."

"This next election—if we win it properly let's sweep the decks," he told the delegates. "Then nobody will be able to slur you again."

After the 1935 election the people of Alberta were "stunned" for voting for him, he said.

"They said you had no intelligence. Prove your intelligence by voting for us again," he said.

The Premier disagreed with Hon. Solon Low's statement, to the previous evening that the devil and darned interest. The devil does a dirty job he can get someone else to do," he said. "It was the goldenites who originated interest payments."

NOT WRECKING PROVINCE

Many of the people who were terrified at the Social Credit victory in 1935 were now satisfied that the leaders would not do anything to wreck the province. They knew now that the intention was to make the province the "best in the world."

The Premier interspersed his entire address with jokes and anecdotes.

It was not enough for Social Crediters to aim high, he warned. They must also aim wisely. "It's not enough to have a Social Credit, you must say how you're going to work the wisdom into it.

"You must keep out all selfishness and all individual greed. The good of all is bound to be in the interest of each one.

"We have a tool to put into this thing," he urged. "We must stand true in the face of everything. We need men with convictions."

He also visited Detroit, Minneapolis, Toronto and Montreal.

Miser Dies In Unheated Shack

DENY REPORTS OF SABOTAGE IN TWO BLASTS

being guarded by sentries and war office constabulary.

The electrical plant fire occurred at Enfield, five miles from Waltham Abbey, scene of a gigantic explosion yesterday. The fire was brought under control within an hour and did small damage but it stimulated the investigation of reports of a big sabotage plot against British war factories.

Scotland Yard chiefs held a secret conference at the gunpowder works this morning as local gossips bussed reports that the explosion had been due either to German agents or Communists.

It was understood that there had been three attempts at sabotage at the gigantic Waltham Abbey plant, covering a wide circumference of seven miles, before yesterday's blast.

ANONYMOUS INFORMATION

Anonymous information had been received by authorities that "accidents" would happen" at Waltham Abbey and other munitions plants and that Scotland Yard operatives had been questioning hundreds of employees during the last week.

The Waltham Abbey incident followed by 24 hours the disclosure that authorities had been precautions against a suspected German intelligence saboteur plot aimed at railroads, bridges and public buildings. Six hundred thousand railroad workers had been put on guard, among others, against such attempts. So strict were railroad precautions that an air raid warden, who had been patrolling tracks to see whether lights shone from windows paralleling them, were ordered off on the ground that German agents might pretend to be wardens.

ATMOSPHERIC FREAK

The force of the Waltham Abbey explosion was so great when it was disclosed that by an atmospheric freak it was heard at Leamington Spa, 90 miles away, broke windows there, and sent some people scurrying to shelter, thinking there was an air raid.

An area of 20 miles around the plant was shaken.

The explosion occurred in a nitroglycerine drying shed. Each of the many sheds is isolated by high protective earth works and fences of blankets to break the force of the explosion. Five persons, one still missing, were listed as dead. At least 60 persons were injured and the factory hospital was filled to a full time with others with minor injuries or shock.

into submission by air raids before the government can form any defending herself from the air.

Norway, Sweden and Denmark. It was said, could not supply Finland with the airplanes unless they threw neutrality to the winds and dispatched their whole air forces en masse.

Nevertheless, some experts here think that 230 good pursuit planes could turn the trick for Finland. They said that only Britain and France could provide them. Supplementing any such help from the Allies, purchases from the United States and contributions from Italy would, in the opinion of Scandinavian observers, enable Finland to defend herself indefinitely.

According to all reports received here, Finland has not lost enough men to hamper her army operations.

NEED IS IMMEDIATE

A need for man-power, defensive artillery or ammunition might arise if the Russian big offensive breaks through the Finnish barrier, or when the weight of Russian man-power begins to tell, but the need for airplanes is immediate.

Foreigners returning from Aabo, southwest Finland, reported that until lately there were no Finnish pursuit planes at that point because all were needed at the front, and that as soon as a few arrived there, the Russian bombing became much less accurate.

Swedish volunteers leave for Finland almost daily by the train-load or in large truck caravans. Danes and Norwegians go singly or in small groups because of more restrictive regulations in those countries. There are other scattered groups going to Finland, including Americans of Finnish and Swedish descent.

Volunteers For Finland Pass Through Paris

British United Press Exclusive Cable to The Edmonton Bulletin

PARIS, Jan. 19—Authoritative sources today said it had been confirmed that thousands of volunteers for Finland had passed through France. It was said that many of the bulk of the troops believed to be soldiers accustomed to operations in the snow. No further explanation of the origin of the volunteers was given.

Thoughtful Thieves

Thieves who broke into the workshop of the Edmonton Junk Company at 10141 96 street, Thursday night, and stole a welder, pipe-cutters and dies, and tools valued at nearly $600 were thoughtful anyway, police said Friday. They used a truck belonging to Saul Sugarman, manager of the plant, to carry off their loot, and then returned the truck, put it back in its stall in the garage and locked the garage.

Blizzard In France Postpones Zero Hour: Neutrals Apprehensive

By SIR PHILIP GIBBS
Noted British War Correspondent
Copyright, 1940, by The Edmonton Bulletin

WITH THE BRITISH FORCES IN FRANCE, Jan. 19.—(By Wireless)—The sudden flurry of apprehension arising in neutral countries over newspaper reports of a possible German attack probably has been eased by a change in weather.

At least in our part of the landscape snow has been falling steadily all day after a night of heavy thaw. Snowflakes, spreading a white mantle over fields and roads, are perhaps a more powerful agent than guns against the chance of a big attack.

Airplanes would have no visibility, and tanks and armored cars would be lost and immobilized in this blizzard, which, I guess, is falling over Germany and her near neighbors in addition to northern France.

NOT GOOD TIME

It isn't a good time, surely, for zero hours anywhere on the western front, even if that has been in the mind of the German high command. Napoleon in his Russian campaign knew the terror of snow wherein thousands of his men struggled in retreat until they lay down on its white bed to sleep forever.

On the British front the snowstorm made a magic and picturesque difference in a few hours. Grimness has departed from the scene, and here is beauty around gun emplacements and about junk traps and hedgerows, trenches and broastworks. Their blackness is covered up by this cloak of ermine and the field of fire in front of them is unblemished in its whiteness.

Today I saw some British troops marching forward, and their steel hats, crowned by snow, gave them a strangely mediaeval look. Truck and gun carriages are canopied over and the soldiers' greatcoats have white breastplates as they march. It is all very picturesque in the little old towns where the roofs, turrets and stonework of old houses are outlined by soft, falling snow.

I walked through the Grande Place of one of these towns this morning and my own footsteps were the only smudges on the whiteness between the houses which have seen many centuries of French history.

Am I writing too much about a little snow? Does it mean as much as that chance of a battle?

I hardly think so because the odd thing in modern war is that its mechanization is less mobile in mud, slush and snow than the old-fashioned methods of war with nothing moving faster than the pace of marching men.

Any attempt at a German blitzkrieg would be slowed down and stopped by such conditions. I may be wrong, but I have a strong belief that the German high command won't hazard any beginning of hostilities on a big scale, or even thought they would take that gambler's risk against the French and British armies until the skies are clear and the roads passable.

That is why I have discounted in my own mind all those sensational warnings in certain papers and that the state of tension exists in countries unpleasantly near the German frontier.

It is no longer necessary to leave wreckage undistributed in cases of minor airplane accidents.

AGITATION ON FOR OVERHAUL WAR CABINET

Premier Chamberlain Is Pressed To Shake-Up Whole Administration

By J. F. SANDERSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Jan. 19.—The Labor Party has decided to give a parliamentary lead to the newspaper campaign for appointment of a small war cabinet to control all aspects of the economic side of the war.

Side by side with this agitation, Prime Minister Chamberlain is being pressed to overhaul the whole administration, reduce the size of his war cabinet, and staff it with men unhampered by day-by-day departmental routine.

The war cabinet consists of nine men, six of whom are in charge of government departments. It is argued that war cabinet is too bulky and should be cut to five, with the Prime Minister as chairman and sixth member.

One agitation concerns appointment of a minister of defence to be responsible for the war office, admiralty and air ministry with the existing ministers—now all members of the war cabinet—as his deputies. In addition he would control supplies for the three fighting services now under a separate department as far as the war office is concerned.

The Labor Party will sponsor the suggestion a minister be appointed over the whole economic side of the war. At present this work is being done by Sir John Simon, chancellor of the exchequer, and Lord H. Cross, minister of economic warfare, whose department is concerned almost wholly with the blockade of Germany.

HARTLEY FREED MANSLAUGHTER, DRIVING COUNTS

Harold E. Hartley, Edmonton, was found not guilty in supreme court Thursday by Mr. Justice A. F. Ewing on charges of manslaughter and dangerous driving.

The charges arose out of an accident on 104 avenue between 111 street and the car's residence of which Charles E. Pruden, Prince Albert, died of injuries received.

Acquitting the accused, Mr. Justice Ewing said that while the speed may have been negligent and the caution not what may have been expected of the motorist, the negligence was not so reckless as to bring the accused within the provisions of the criminal law.

ALASKA ROAD FOR ALBERTA SAID CERTAIN

Fallow Declares Highway Definitely To Be Built Through Province

CALGARY, Jan. 19—The proposed United States to Alaska highway would definitely be built through Alberta, Hon. W. A. Fallow, provincial minister of public works told the Social Credit League convention here last night.

"No matter what Premier Pattullo (of British Columbia) may say, I'll stake my personal reputation on the highway going through Alberta," he said.

ALBERTA DOES WORK

While B.C. was talking about the international highway, Alberta had gone ahead this summer and completed a 350-mile leg of the road—from Grimshaw, in the Peace River district to Great Slave Lake, Mr. Fallow said.

"The trouble with the B.C. route is that it's not passable in the winter—and they have nine months winter," he said.

"The Americans have already named the road for us—the highway to the midnight sun," said the minister.

"There are 140,000,000 people anxious to drive their cars from here to Alaska—even to the extent of putting up the money for the road," he said.

RICHEST PROVINCE

He referred to northern Alberta's tremendous mineral resources. Hematite, tungsten and iron were there for manufacturing high grade steel.

"When that's opened up we'll be able to build everything from busties to battleships," he said.

"When we get that north opened we'll be the richest province in Canada, without a doubt," he said.

ALLIES MUST BE PREPARED FOR BIG PUSH

Ready To Make Their Supreme Effort At Any Time

VANCOUVER, Jan. 19—The Allies should be prepared to make their "supreme effort" at any time in their war with Germany, Air Chief Marshal Sir Robert Brooke-Popham, head of the British air mission to Canada, said in a luncheon address here yesterday.

"Just because we have prepared for a three years war doesn't mean we must make it last that time," he said in his address to a combined meeting of the United Services and Canadian Clubs. "We must be prepared to make a supreme effort at any time."

CO-ORDINATION NEEDED

Sir Robert told his audience, a group in which air force, army and naval uniforms were predominant, that so far, the war "has not gone as we expected," but, he added, "no wars ever have." Some, he said, have found the conflict "exclusive," difficult to get into, and others found it boring.

Stating there were also periods in the last war which were boring, he warned that things might change within a few months.

"We shan't bring this war to any end with which we can be satisfied unless we utilize every resource in the most effective and efficient manner, co-ordinating all togeiher into a homogeneous entity."

AIR DEFENCE STRONGER

Speaking of air power, he said that so far the defensive side has proved stronger than the attack.

"But it should be wrong to believe the power of air to strike is gone," he said, "Rather, it hasn't struck yet. It would be unwise to relax any effort, either as regards defence or as regards offensive potentiality."

The Empire air training scheme was something which Hitler could not hope to imitate. He had no Canada where men could train in peace and security. This factor, he suggested, must have its moral effect on Germany and its leaders.

CHINESE HAVE NEW SUCCESSES AGAINST JAPS

HONG KONG, Jan. 19.—Chinese authorities today reported fresh successes on the Kwangtung front in South China where their accounts pictured Chinese forces driving spearheads from different directions toward Canton.

They said their troops had recaptured a station on the Canton-Hawkow railway 33 miles north of Canton and caused 500 Japanese casualties while another force was heading toward Kongkun, only 10 miles north of the South China metropolis.

New Ore Strike At Silver Mine

WALLACE, Idaho, Jan. 19—A new ore strike in the richest silver producing mine in the United States, the Sunshine, was reported yesterday. A company official said the new vein, five feet wide and across the full face, assayed 100 ounces to the ton.

Fur Swim Suit

"Let's go swimming this winter, I have a new fur bathing suit." Silly? Sure, but not the fur bathing suit reference. A Miss Barbara Wells, of Miami Beach, is seen as she sunned herself in this neat affair. Alaska seal trimmed with white ermine and ermine tails. And that's the full extent of her activities in the ensemble—sunning and beautifying beaches.

OFFICERS OF CANADA ARMY ON EXERCISES

Major-General McNaughton Holds Conference With Military Leaders

By EDWIN JOHNSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

ALDERSHOT, England, Jan. 19.—Major-General A. G. L. McNaughton, commander of the Canadian Active Service Force, returned to London yesterday for a hurried conference with Canadian and British military chiefs after a few hours at his divisional headquarters here. He came back to the camp last night.

After taking leave of Viscount Gort at the conclusion of an eight-day visit to the British Expeditionary Force in France, General McNaughton flew to London Wednesday and subsequently motored to Aldershot with Lieut.-Colonel Sansom, who met him at the airport.

Early yesterday senior officers of the first division took off for a special war exercise "somewhere in England." Included in the party were Lieut.-Colonel G. R. Turner, senior general staff officer; Brigadiers A. A. Smith, G. R. Pearkes, C. B. Price and J. C. Stewart; Lieut-Colonel C. S. L. Hertzberg, commander of the Divisional Engineers; Lieut.-Colonel Tremaine, officer commanding the Second Field Regiment, and Lieut.-Colonel Johnson of the anti-tank regiment.

General McNaughton and Colonel Sansom will join the party later as the exercises will continue until Sunday.

LAUREYS NEW MINISTER TO SOUTH AFRICA

First High Commissioner Is Appointed To Union By Canada

OTTAWA, Jan. 19—Prime Minister Mackenzie King announced last night the appointment of Dr. Henry Laureys of Montreal, as Canadian High Commissioner to the Union of South Africa. With this appointment, Canada now is represented in the capitals of all members of the British Commonwealth.

Widely known as an economist and administrator, he was largely responsible for the development of the School of Higher Commercial Studies in Montreal, of which he became dean in 1916.

Born in Belgium in 1882, Dr. Laureys was educated at Louvain university and came to Canada in 1911, when he was appointed to the staff of the Commercial School. As part of his work he organized and directed the Commercial and Industrial Museum of Montreal. In 1914 he became a Canadian citizen.

Dr. Laureys was for some time director-general of technical education for Quebec province and is a past president of the Montreal Chamber of Commerce. He speaks English, French and Dutch and has written several books and pamphlets on economic subjects.

First Canada Division Will Be Trained From Ground Up: McNaughton

Canadian Press Staff Writer

ALDERSHOT, Eng., Jan. 19.—Individual training for Canada's 1st Division will extend over a period of some weeks, it was announced yesterday by Lt.-Col. G. R. Turner, general staff officer (1st grade).

The decision is the first step in Major-General A. G. L. McNaughton's "build - from - the - ground-up" policy.

In the special order of the day Dec. 17 the division officer commanding said: "We must devote ourselves to becoming proficient with our weapons, instruments and vehicles, and to the practice of cooperation, individual with individual, unit with unit, arm with arm, formation with formation."

LEVEL STANDARD

The stress on individual training following the division's extended exercises in Canada indicates General McNaughton's insistence on a level standard throughout the division, an achievement virtually impossible in Canada owing to the variation across the Dominion in weather conditions, stores and equipment supplies. Technical equipment is now available to meet all needs.

Following individual training, there will be a period of collective training designed to weld the division as a compact, battle-worthy formation, ready to take the field.

Efficiency of the training program has been guaranteed not only by the selection in Canada of experienced officers but also by various courses for officers and other ranks, now in progress. These courses average two to three weeks in length, have been staggered over 10 weeks up to the end of this month.

More than 100 officers and 150 other ranks from all arms within the Canadian Active Service Force have been chosen for courses. Subjects included are tactics and gunnery, field engineering, use of platoon weapons, motor transport driving and maintenance, camouflage and concealment, intelligence and signal duties and instruction in physical training and anti-gas work.

MARRIED LIFE FOR CONVICTS IS SUGGESTED

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 19—Married life in jail would be a good thing, a criminologist said yesterday. The number of habitual edliminals might be "considerably lowered," Dr. Nathaniel Cantor, of the University of Buffalo told the Pennsylvania Prison Society, if prisoners were permitted to bring their families along or "to marry within the community."

Finns Can Hold Off Reds As Long as Assistance Forthcoming From Abroad

By WEBB MILLER
British United Press Exclusive Cable to The Edmonton Bulletin

WITH THE FINNISH ARMY, Jan. 19—Neutral military observers expressed conviction today that the Finns could hold the Russian army indefinitely provided they could obtain from abroad sufficient credits and supplies, notably fast fighting planes, anti-tank and machine guns and gasoline.

In this war of man against machine, the man seemed so far to have won. In seven weeks of desperate fighting in sub-zero cold, which has reached 54 below in the last two days, the Finnish army, according to neutral observers, has fought the Russian army successfully with less machine power, fewer guns, fewer men and under overwhelmingly superior rain of shells.

POSITION IMPROVED

Today according to observers, the Finns' strategic position is far better than at any time since the start of the war and they are not seriously menaced at present at any point.

On five different fronts, according to Finnish communiques, the Finns have thrown the Russians back, at places to their own frontier, they have broken three Russian divisions, normally from 15,000 to 18,000 men each, on the basis of their reports, and have captured enormous quantities of war materials including several hundred guns of different calibre. They lay claim to the capture or destruction of about 430 tanks and the infliction of tens of thousands of casualties.

I have taken occasion during the last few days, with interruptions due to air raids and air raid alarms, to make a survey of the situation. I have seen enough fighting and enough of the peculiar Finnish terrain, and have talked to enough officers, men and neutral experts to give their explanation of a military feat which has astonished the world.

REASONS FOR SUCCESS

Summarized, here are some of the reasons offered why the Finns have been able to hold off the Russian machine:

1—The Finns believe they are fighting for their lives, their homes their religion and their liberty.

2—The Finnish soldier has been trained for fighting in the difficult terrain and rigorous climate. Foreign observers say the Finnish soldier has a high standard of education, initiative and a high measure of physical fitness and endurance to the cold and fatigue which are vital factors in this war.

3—With three-fourths of its area covered by thick forests, cut by comparatively few roads, and with about 70,000 lakes, many of which inter-connect to form a canalized front, the country is ideally adapted to fight against a mechanized army.

4—Field Marshal Baron Carl Gustav Mannerheim, the Finnish commander in chief, and many officers of the high command fought the Russians in the War of Independence over this same ground.

5—The Finnish system of communications and transport is superior, observers say, to that of Russia. The Finnish railroad system enable the Finns to achieve greater mobility, to concentrate quicker at a given point and to move supplies faster. Nearly all Finns are skilful skiers. Few Russians can ski. Hence the Finns have superior mobility in the snow.

BETTER LEADERS

6—Neutral observers say that the Finnish commanders had longer and better training, that the staff work of the Finns is better. There is a tendency to speculate on this in connection with the Russian army "purge" which caused the disappearance of many officers of the Russian high command.

7—Finnish marksmanship, both with rifle and artillery, is of a high order to that of the Russians.

NEW METHOD OF TREATMENT FOR SOLDIERS

Military Surgeons Told Of Plan Developed To Aid Wounded

By STEPHEN J. McDONOUGH
Associated Press Science Writer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19—United States military surgeons were told yesterday that a method of spot deadening" of war wounds has been developed to aid in caring for injured soldiers on the battlefield.

The elimination of pain by applying anaesthetics directly to a wound or the nerves near it without deadening the entire body is the secret of this method of treatment, Dr. M. B. Greene, of the Post Graduate Association of Regional Anaesthesia, Brooklyn, N.Y., declared.

If an anaesthetic, such as novocaine, is applied directly to the point where a bone is broken or to the nerves surrounding the point where an injury, such as a bullet wound, has occurred, the patient remains conscious and can co-operate with physicians, nurses and stretcher bearers.

"Proper and timely application of regional anaesthesia and nerve block will permit and secure more speedy evacuation of wounded soldiers," he said.

It would enable an ambulance corps to handle 10 men instead of one or two, he added, since properly trained personnel can easily make a "walking case" out of a soldier who might otherwise have to be carried.

Son of McNaughton Is Provisional Pilot With Royal Canadian Air Force

By ROSS MUNRO
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, Jan. 19.—A son of the commander of the Canadian troops now overseas, a former wireless operator on the H.M.S. Exeter and the first American to start training with the Royal Canadian Air Force are learning to fly as provisional pilot officers at bleak Uplands airport near here.

Included in a group of seven student pilots going through elementary instruction at the Ottawa Flying Club, they train in bitter weather that sends the mercury to 30 below at 5.00 feet. But when summer comes they probably will win their air force "wings" and be ready for service overseas with a fighter or bomber squadron.

There is Ian McNaughton, a son of Major-General A. G. L. McNaughton, commander of the first division of the Canadian Active Service Force now at Aldershot, Eng. Fresh from the Royal Military College, Kingston, Ont., he is carrying on the family military tradition in the air and after six hours dual instruction is ready to be the first of his unit to solo.

Flying Officer Art Chesson of Calgary, the instructor, says "young McNaughton is all set to go now and soon I'll let him up there by himself." Another son, Andrew, already has completed the R.C.A.F. elementary training and is at another school taking the intermediate course.

And not far behind Ian McNaughton in this local "international brigade" of the air force are Clive Sinlon, who left the sea and the Exeter before the Graf Spee battle to learn to fight in the air, and Michael McPharlin, a former medical student at Duke University who came from Durham, N.C., to help in the Empire's war.

NEW HOPE FOR INSANITY CURE IS EXPRESSED

Dementia Praecox Victims Said Possible To Cure By Psychiatrist

By FRANCIS E. CAREY
Associated Press Staff Writer

BOSTON, Jan. 19.—The awakening of "Rip Van Winkles" among the insane — dementia praecox sufferers who had "slumbered" for 20 years—has brought new evidence that the advanced disease may be curable, a Boston psychiatrist said last night.

Dr. Kenneth J. Tillotson said the progress was made in the first long-term tests of a new "total push" method of treatment, designed to "push" patients out of their realm of hallucination and phantasy, and institute normal social habits.

Declaring the method included occupational therapy as well as psychological pressure in a "more intense form" than previously attempted, Tillotson said in an interview:

"The results of this therapy during 15 months with 67 patients, including a dozen who have been in mental hospitals for an average of 20 years, strongly indicate that we have grounds for revising previously-held ideas of advanced dementia praecox—namely, that patients in the chronic stages could not be called back from their worlds of unreality and phantasy."

Fifty-six counties in 17 states of the Union have blast furnaces. Eighty-seven per cent are located in six states: Pennsylvania, Ohio, Illinois, Alabama, Indiana, and New York.

He Needs Telling

Western coal-men want the Dominion Government to help them sell Alberta coal in Ontario, and point out that the exchange situation would improve if money now sent to pay for millions of tons of United States coal was kept in Canada.

The inference is that the eleven per cent exchange tax on United States coal purchases has not helped the Alberta trade in Ontario. If this is the case, $89 worth of Pennsylvania coal must be considered by the Ontario consumer to be equal in heating value to $100 worth of Alberta coal.

What would seem to be needed is an educational campaign, aimed to make the merits of Alberta coal better known in that province. If the Ontario consumer is pocket conscious, to say nothing of being financially patriotic, the campaign should get some results. An eleven per cent bonus is a pretty substantial advantage in bidding for trade.

Between Josef and Benito

Berlin has lifted the ban against the shipment of Italian arms through the Reich to Finland. The explanation department offers the intriguing hypothesis that the embargo was imposed because of railway transport difficulties. How a railway congestion was to be relieved by forbidding Italian planes to fly across the country, Herr Goebbels does not try to elucidate. There is humor even in wartime.

The prohibitory order was issued because that would please Stalin; probably because he demanded it. The order is now suspended because Mussolini demanded that, which Rome announced a few days ago. It will be reimposed if Stalin insists, there can be no doubt. For as between Josef and Benito, the former has Hitler at his mercy while the latter has not.

Russian troops are camped on the German border, all the way from East Prussia to the Carpathians; and Stalin has only to refuse supplies to put Germany in the grip of economic pincers which would spell doom for the Nazis. Mussolini will neither fight for his axis ally nor refrain from offending his new partner in the bludgeoning business.

Stalin is therefore Hitler's best bet, and Adolf knows it. However anxious Il Duce may be to help the Finns fight Russia, he won't help them by shipping arms through Germany if Moscow decrees otherwise.

The perplexed Fuehrer, caught in his own trap, may reflect with profit, if not with pleasure, that one of the despised Jews long ago warned him "A man cannot serve two masters".

Full Steam Ahead

Offering $200,000,000 of war bonds was the nearest thing to taking a plebiscite on the question of whether Canada should or should not have joined the Allies in resisting Nazi aggression. That was not the direct purpose of the loan, but is one of the incidental effects. Had the bonds failed to sell, that would have been interpreted as a sign that Canadians did not approve the decision to back Britain and France.

As the bonds were oversubscribed in a couple of days, the contrary conclusion is plain. The Government and parliament have been given unquestionable approval for refusing to keep the Dominion standing on the sidelines when democracy and all it involves and implies had to be defended or allowed to perish at the hands of a predatory autocrat.

There is no mistaking, and can be no misconstruing, this side-significance of the popular clamor for the war bonds. While the rate of interest is as high as should be paid, it was not high enough to excite the cupidity of persons concerned only in getting a big return from an investment. Those who bought the bonds did so because they wanted to beat Hitlerism; wanted to do that more than they wanted to hold funds in hand to take advantage of any opportunity that might arise for profitable speculation or business venture.

If there has been any disposition at Ottawa to go easy with the war effort until the public reaction was better known, there is no occasion for further hesitancy. The public have spoken, in emphatic tones, and in the most convincing way offering. Where the treasure goes voluntarily, there the heart has gone before it. Canadians want to put their whole weight into their punches, and have said so.

The Government can proceed now to develop its war plans as rapidly as sound judgment warrants, with assurance that the public are behind the effort, mean to see the thing through to success, and will cheerfully provide funds as these are required.

Dodging The Exchange

The city of Edmonton has a bond interest payment falling due at the first of February, ambunting to $320,000. The bonds carry an option clause by which holders, though resident in Canada, may demand payment in the United States. It is estimated that three-quarters of the bonds are held in Canada. Should all Canadian holders demand payment in the United States, the city would have to pay about $35,000 exchange to obtain the funds there.

But the Canadian holders would not get the 11 per cent exchange paid by the city. They would get only 4½ per cent. The Dominion treasury and the exchange control board would take the balance. Wherefore, council will offer Canadian holders $1.04½ in Canadian money for each dollar due them. And will ask them, as a matter of practical war-time patriotism, to forego the premium and accept a dollar.

It will be interesting to see how many Canadian holders allow their patriotism to affect their pockets to the extent of accepting the dollar and leaving the taxpayer the four and a half cents with which to pay war taxes and help support war-time economic conditions. Those who do so will deserve honorable mention. Those who demand the premium should also get publicity.

The city, it is calculated, will by this procedure have to pay only $19,250 because of the difference in exchange, supposing all Canadian holders demand the 4½ per cent premium. The saving to the city, as against paying all the coupons in the United States, works out at $15,750.

The Canadian bond-holders would not, of course, get this money in any case. It would go into the Dominion treasury. The bond-holders suffer nothing by the short-cut method of payment. But the Dominion loses the 5 per cent it would collect on Canadian-held coupons sent to the United States to be cashed. The Dominion is therefore out what the city saves, as the result of agreeing to allow the settlement to be made in lawful money of Canada.

Mr. Gardiner was re-elected president of the U.F.A. for his tenth consecutive term. He is within measurable distance of the mark set by Mr. H. W. Wood, who held the office from 1916 to 1931. This is evidence of the satisfaction his leadership has given the members of the organization. Also of the continued freedom of the organization from any dread of "third terms." The U.F.A. has been radical in some of its proposals, but it is thoroughly conservative on the point that it is easier to keep an acceptable leader than to find a better one.

The Passing Show

By MAX FREEDMAN

What are French leaders thinking about the war? We know that Communist deputies who have not disavowed Stalin have been expelled. We know that a united nation guards the historic frontiers of France. But most people do not know what policies the French government would accept as providing a basis for a durable peace settlement when the power of Nazi Germany has been smashed. Mr. Chamberlain has already sketched in measured and sober terms the peace aims of the British people. What has M. Daladier to say on this subject?

SOME NEWS FROM PARIS

Paris newspapers, containing verbatim reports of speeches by the French premier which are only summarized in the English press, provide a ready and magnificent answer.

That Daladier was a superb war minister was already a commonplace for the whole world, but these speeches also display his singular genius as a statesman aware of the basic problems which must be faced before peace can ever be achieved.

He speaks with the French gift for realism. "Let us not be tossed about by the waves of emotion; let us not be enslaved by slogans; let us not believe that Utopia can be born from battle." Daladier believes it is not short of a crime to excite in men's minds the hope that this war already is won by the Allies, or that when it is won, all will automatically be well for the world.

In his speech to the Chamber of Deputies from which the above passage has been translated, Premier Daladier asserted with sharp emphasis that the supreme mistake made by the Allied Powers in the last great war was that they failed to consolidate the fruits of victory.

He points out that it was not the Versailles Settlement that has to be blamed, but rather the indisputable fact that Britain and France drifted apart in their peace policies the moment the armistice sounded.

So Daladier states the first aim of France in bringing a peace based upon justice to Europe. Britain and France must be allies in peace just as they are allies in war; they must, in his own phrase, "be allies for peace."

Premier Daladier then states that it is altogether false and misleading to have people ask what are the peace aims of Britain and France. He says a much better question would be to solicit proof from Germany that her intentions are peaceful and benevolent. Already in this war, he declared, publicists are saying that it is the duty of the democracies to pave the way to the reconstruction of Europe.

THE NEED FOR VISION

Daladier does not oppose that proposal, though he admits it must be more than a nebulous theory entertained by speculative thinkers before it can provide a basis for constructive political action.

"Victory must never forget," Daladier emphasizes, "is the primary responsibility of Germany in bringing on this war. We cannot impose a settlement of justice: Germany must first show she is ready for justice, show she deserves justice."

No statesman in any country has put the central issue more clearly than this. While speakers, all of them free from official responsibility, go up and down Canada chattering about a federation of Europe, Daladier punctures the well-known theories by asking one simple question—what about Germany? Until we know what sort of Germany will emerge from this war, what her new rulers will be like and what policies they will represent, it is barren folly to draw up a blue-print of some abstract political paradise for Europe.

Daladier sees four countries whose policies form obstacles to a European federation. Germany, Italy, Russia and Spain will in all likelihood not be truly democratic at the end of the war, even if Germany again sets up some form of so-called democracy like the "Weimar Republic" in which the army still retains a large measure of its former autocratic power. All the dictator states left the League of Nations; only the democracies remained. Must not a community of ideals reinforce a community of interest, Daladier asks, before peace can be ensured?

PEACE AND DICTATORS

The French premier reminds the world that if the Allied Powers win, as he has no doubt they will, then it is plain they have a "preponderance of power" over Germany and her satellites. So he asks that this preponderance —actual, vital, undeniable—be made the basis of providing security to both Britain and France before it is scrapped for any grandiose venture in some new scheme of international cooperation that looks fine on paper but cannot work except on paper.

The Chamber of Deputies recognized a masterly address and gave Daladier an ovation. Most Canadians, I think, would have done likewise. We have all had too much of the silly pap of disarming while great powers in central Europe, who made no secret of their belligerent intent, were arming remorselessly. This time that mistake must not be repeated. Until the peace settlement has been framed, until the dictator states, and especially Germany, have truly renounced war as an instrument of national policy, the democracies cannot forfeit their place of authority in Europe. Unless Britain and France can draw Germany into peace, they will again be driven into war by Germany.

We quote the telegram that Adolf Hitler sent Josef Stalin last week: "On the occasion of your sixtieth birthday, I request you to accept my most honest congratulations. I connect herewith my best wishes for your personal well being, as well as for the happy future of peoples befriended by the Soviet Union." We quote also from Pravda iv, 21: "His mouth was smooth as butter, but his heart was war. His words were softer than oil, yet were they drawn swords."—Providence Journal.

Current Comment

Not All Black

Things are not all black. We have only to consider the temper in which we are waging the present war to see that in some respects we have made progress. It is a resolute temper, but it is more tolerant than that which moved us in the last war. But what distinguishes the conditions today from those of 1914-18 is the determination to make an ameliorative rather than a punitive peace. That experience has, in fact, taught us a great deal; we have learned from Versailles and its consequences the sort of peace we and others need.

It is, no doubt, a grim reflection that we should have to contemplate fashioning another world peace, but at any rate it is some comfort to think that our ideas of what peace should be are larger and more tolerant and understanding than they were in the days of Versailles. As the war proceeds, that comfort may lose some of its quality, but let us hope that the foundation of it will not be destroyed and that, in spite of the bitterness of the conflict, we shall continue to hold fast to our ideals.—Liverpool Post.

The Bank of Toronto

Speaking at the 84th annual meeting at Toronto on Wednesday, President John R. Lamb of the Bank of Toronto said because of previous threats "The actual outbreak of war found people well prepared for the shock." As a result the country was able to change from peace to war footing with little disturbance of industry.

As to the future, Mr. Lamb said: "Knowing that we must meet a heavy war burden, it will be better for all concerned to have a pay-as-we-go policy in which everyone must share, rather than an attempt to meet the costs through fanciful schemes which lead to ruin. It is rather significant that the monetary plans which blossom in the years of depression seem to fade out when the real needs of war arise.

"These considerations remind us that beyond the immediate hazard of the war there is another danger which may be more insidious because it is less evident. We have seen how certain governments of Europe, while nominally claiming to advance the interests of their peoples, have in reality called upon them for unprecedented sacrifices in their living standards, for vainglorious purposes of the state."

Mr. F. H. Marsh, general manager, presenting the annual balance sheet said profits for the year after providing for all known contingencies amounted to $1,324,229. After paying the usual dividends and writing off the usual appropriation against bank premises, $524,229 was carried forward to profit and loss. The assets of the bank showed an increase of $19,727,103, and now stand at $168,330,469. Deposits of $142,034,974 showed an increase of more than $20 millions, of which more than $13 millions were deposits by the public.

The Rally for Civilization

In world affairs there was a time late in 1938 when justice seemed to have no champion. Force and the jackal-Nazi phalanxes had obliterated or annexed half a dozen nations. Hatred and terrorism were in the saddle, and the remainder of the world stood irresolute.

But there came a final rally of magnificent unanimity and sternness. The sense that civilization itself was in danger; that the treasured heritage of 500 years of slow advance toward standards of stability, humanity and honor in international relations was imperiled; that arrogant perfidy and brute force might take command first of Europe and then of the world, rendering it unfit to live in—this aroused Britain and France when as yet no immediate challenge had been flung to their vital interests. It has aroused enlightened peoples to their moral support—and if more than that is required, who will say that it will not be forthcoming?

A terrible decade—so we may well exclaim in looking back on it. But its very blows and losses have had their compensations in stripping away some of the illusions which have blinded great multitudes. And it has closed upon a note of rigorous dedication which is more than encouraging—which is inspiring.

It is not wholly a decade of loss which ends in our American Republic with tens of millions more fully aware than ever before of what democracy and social justice really mean; with the country at last shaken out of its shallow belief that it could stand selfishly aloof from the rest of the world and play no part in shaping international destinies. It is by no means wholly a decade of loss which ends with brave Frenchmen crowding the bleak trenches and brave Englishmen facing the perils of mine-infested seas in defence of aims which involve the whole future of civilization.—Allan Nevins, Professor of History in Columbia University, in the New York Times.

Religion Day By Day

MEDICINE THAT KILLS

A thrill of horror ran through the nation when it was found that a wonderful new medicine, wrongly compounded, was killing all the patients who were taking it. More than three-score persons died before the last bottle could be traced and recovered.

This medicine, marvellously potent in the hands of a competent physician, had been incorrectly prepared by a pharmaceutical house.

Somehow the tragedy suggests the prevalence of other remedies too freely offered for social and spiritual ills. What a welter of cults and philosophies and practices are promoted for the healing and pleasure of the race! Youth, in its eager ignorance, is grasping for everything new that offers a fresh sensation, little suspecting that "there is death in the pot."

Restrain us from heedlessness and folly, our Father; that we may find our real health only in the tested prescriptions of Thy word. Amen.

Peace and the new order it will establish will make possible the voluntary repatriation of a certain number of refugees and the inevitable departure of those who have usurped their homes.—Count Rene Doynel de Saint-Quentin, French ambassador to the United States.

Time Saves Life and Taxes

Editor, Bulletin: In the old times when the city had a police station and fire hall within a few rods of the scene, the fire last Saturday which cost the life of a fireman, such a fire would have been nipped in the bud, saving a life, much property and costs of extinguishing the conflagration. That loss would have paid for the installation of a fire alarm box at the corner.

There are apartment houses in the city with toll phones but to turn in a fire alarm or call police from such a phone an inmate of the block must have a big nickel in change, or run out to the nearest alarm box. A treasury voucher or $1,000 bill of the Bank of Canada is useless then, for only a big nickel can turn in a fire alarm from a toll phone.

The fire brigade are "ready, aye, ready;" but if not called at the outset of any fire they are seriously handicapped in saving life and property, and they have more work at greater expense to the taxpayers.

Some taxi companies have private phone boxes whence a call for a taxi can be sent in. Does any city have a system of such phones at street corners where a citizen can call police or ask information?

McKenney On Bridge

By WM. E. McKENNEY, America's Card Authority

This is the eighth of a series of 12 articles by Harry Fishbein and Robert Applegard of New York, holders of the world championship masters pair title.

In today's hand, the champions point out one of the more complicated plays, based on timing and watching entries. When South wins the opening lead the average player will play a small heart to ruff in dummy and then discover that it is going to be difficult to get back into the South hand.

Duplicate—Neither vul.

South	West	North	East
1♠	Pass	2♣	Pass
2♥	Pass	3♠	Pass
4♠	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening—♥ J. 18

He will probably lead the ace and a small diamond from dummy, West will win and return a trump. Dummy wins with the ace and a diamond is ruffed by South. His other small heart is ruffed in dummy, but now declarer finds himself in a jam. Whether dummy plays the fourth diamond or the ace and a small club, the defenders are bound to win two trump tricks and defeat the contract.

The correct play is to win the first heart, then play a small club and duck. If the defenders lead trumps to limit the heart ruffs, dummy's entries are intact and the club suit can be set up and run. If hearts are returned to try to weaken declarer's trumps, the cross-ruff will be adequate because South gets quick re-entry through ruffing the third club.

Owing to the large number of students taking manual training classes at the Trochu public school, the manual training room, which is well equipped, has been increased to three times its former size.

FAUST

High hopes collapsed for J. Gagne of Slave Lake, and hope was renewed for those whose jobs were threatened when Mr. Gagne's new mode of freighting between Slave Lake and Wanasaca by tractor-train proved impractical over those roads.

The six teams that Mr. Gagne had thus expected to displace will now resume their old job of hauling between those two points. Though it is not one's idea of comfort for either man or beast to pursue that long bush trail, often camping on the way in below-zero weather, they may continue their usual employment.

Wasbasca is a trading point inland to the north-east of Slave Lake.

Young Farmer Is Monoxide Victim; Succumbs In Truck

Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

CAMROSE, Jan. 19 — Carbon monoxide poisoning caused the death Wednesday of Cornelius Hoenstuk, 26, of the Lake Damay district, 12 miles northeast of here. He succumbed to the gas while warming up the engine of his father's light delivery truck.

The young farmer had journeyed to Roundhill with his father for a load of coal and on returning unloaded the coal into the basement. The heater in the cab of the truck apparently froze up. To thaw it out he placed a stable lantern in the cab and then returned to the house for coffee. On leaving the house he discovered the heater was thawed out sufficiently, so drove the truck into the garage and closed the door.

Homesuik not returning to the house, his mother went to the garage, and found her son sitting in the cab of the truck dead.

Dr. F. M. Smith of Camrose was called, but found life extinct. The funeral will be held from the Greek Catholic church, Roundhill, Saturday. He leaves his father and mother, two sisters and two brothers.

Spruce Grove Theft

Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

SPRUCE GROVE — Forcing the door of the service station owned by Mr. Gobel at Spruce Grove, thieves escaped with more than $300 worth of merchandise early Thursday morning. Articles stolen consisted mainly of tubes, tires and batteries, together with a radio. The robbery was discovered by Mr. Gobel Thursday morning and when he opened the service station for business. R.C.M.P. officials are investigating.

Vancouver News Agent Has Sight Restored After 22 Years of Blindness whose appointment as car service agent for the Canadian Pacific Railway, western lines, has been announced by H. C. Taylor, superintendent of transportation. Mr. Keays was formerly chief reference clerk in the office of the vice-president at Winnipeg. His promotion was effective December 15.

VANCOUVER, Jan. 19.—Green grass and trees—the everyday things that most people hardly see—are "miracles" to William Hunter, 68-year-old Vancouver station news agent whose sight was restored after 32 years of blindness.

"I walked to the window of the hospital, not daring to see much to hope," he said in describing his first glimpse of a new world. "But I looked out and for the first time in over 20 years saw green grass. It was wonderful. I think I cried."

From his counter in the Great Northern Railway Station here he can see the clock on the station wall. Before his operation Nov. 3 he couldn't even tell the time.

Hunter said that he lost the sight of his right eye after a blow received in a hockey game. In 1918, after an attack of pneumonia, the sight of his left eye began to go until he had to be led around.

Even after his operation in November he had little hope of seeing again.

"On the fifth night after the operation I had a hemorrhage of the eye," he said. "I thought I had lost my sight forever. To be quite honest with you, I cried.

"But then the doctor examined me and told me I was going to be all right."

Hunter, a Scotsman who came to Canada as a young man and once managed weekly newspapers at Cayuga and Caledonia, Ontario, can't get over modern movies.

"The last motion picture I saw was Charlie Chaplin throwing custard pies," he said. "Why—they even talk in pictures now!"

PRESS URGING APPOINTMENT ECONOMIC HEAD

LONDON, Jan. 19—The press called Thursday for the appointment of an economic warfare overlord with full power to co-ordinate a British drive to obtain trade and supplies needed for prosecuting the war.

Britain already has a minister of economic warfare, Ronald Cross, but Lord Beaverbrook's Evening Standard, while praising him for energetic direction of the blockade, said he lacked the authority to prosecute a second phase of the task—the buying of materials to prevent Germany getting them.

The Star said: "The economic weapon is the fourth arm of our fighting forces. It is likely to prove the decisive one. It cannot be used to best advantage until unity of control and direction are achieved."

Police Investigate Mysterious Lights Along U.S. Border

GANANOQUE, Ont., Jan. 19—District military officials were unable last night to aid in an investigation into mysterious lights seen hovering across the Canadian-United States border along the St. Lawrence river.

Reports from Ottawa that the lights might have been caused by a new signalling device undergoing military tests were denied.

Royal Canadian Mounted Police said they hoped to have a solution to the mystery shortly, adding that they had been co-operating with United States police in their investigation.

Four Officers, 26 Men Rescued From Two British Subs

BERLIN, Jan. 19.—German authorities announced Thursday that four officers and 26 men were rescued by the Germans from the British submarines Starfish and Undine, destroyed in Heligoland Bight Jan. 13.

The British Admiralty announced yesterday that a total of 108 officers and men were missing from three lost submarines, including also the Seahorse. The German announcement indicates that the death toll was 74. The Germans have made no mention of the Seahorse.)

Canadian Ships Are Not Waiting To Capture Nazis

OTTAWA, Jan. 19—Naval officials here said there was no truth in reports Australian and Canadian warships were waiting in the Pacific ocean with a view of picking up members of the crew of the scuttled German Columbus, who are due to sail from San Francisco on Japanese ships.

The Germans are on their way home from New York, where they were landed after they scuttled their ship when overtaken by a British warship.

Woman's Best Friend Is Her Mirror Says Speaker At Convention Held In Masonic Temple

"WOMAN'S best friend is her mirror." Defying all the implications of the age-old Latin dictum, "Vanity of vanities, all is vanity," Miss Edna Dakin, during her address to the women's section of the provincial seed fair in the Masonic Temple, Thursday, stated that a woman should consider her mirror as her best guide and counsellor.

"Make good use of your mirror," she said. "Study yourself honestly, carefully, and ascertain which are your good features and which your bad ones, in coloring, figure and age. Such a study, productive rather than evidencing conceit, is the first step toward dressing to advantage."

ILLUSTRATION

Miss Dakin, who is a member of the staff of the Agricultural Extension Service of the provincial department of agriculture, illustrated her talk with the aid of two girls from the Dominion - provincial youth training organization, who pantomimed the "dos" and "don'ts" of feminine fashions.

Few women, she said, have an inborn flair for choosing clothes best suited to them. Whether an ensemble is becoming is far more important than whether it is smart, she insisted. In the purchasing of clothes and materials for clothes, women are apt to shop too quickly and too emotionally. The cost of the garment or the material should be the last consideration, she asserted, and purchasings should be made with an eye to colors (having in mind reflection and size), the lines of the figure, the texture and design of the fabric, the style and, finally, the cost.

Miss Dakin concluded her address with a definition of a well-dressed woman: "She is inconspicuous at first sight. She is dressed to suit her age and figure, as well as the occasion and the season. She is individual. She has made no mistakes in her choice of accessories."

HEALTH VALUE OF JUICES

The use and value of fruit and vegetable juices was the topic discussed by Miss Hazel McIntyre of the Home Economics Department of the University of Alberta, during the session.

Miss McIntyre explained the preparation of the juices and gave an account of their nutritious values.

Turnip juice, she said, has been used for a number of years in the feeding of small children in an English hospital, she said. Substitution of this juice for tomato and orange juices previously employed has proved beneficial, in health building, and is more easily obtainable throughout the year.

Raw potato water is being employed, experimentally, in a Chicago hospital, she added, in pointing out the more extensive use of vegetable juices in recent years.

All vegetables and fruit are excellent health aids, but for those who are unable to eat them raw, and thus obtain the full vitamin value, the juices have proved excellent substitutes.

Publication Is Discussed At Authors' Meet

Discussion on the recent edition of their Alberta poetry book, which contained poems submitted in the contest held by the club, highlighted a meeting of the Edmonton branch of the Canadian Authors' Association at the home of Miss Srigley, 11337 94 street, on Wednesday evening.

Favored poems were read and comments made by those present while criticisms and opinions of authorities across Canada were also discussed.

Guests, including a new member Mrs. A. R. Cook and a visitor, Mrs. Viola B. Macdonald from Rimbey, were welcomed by the president, Mr. F. G. Roe.

Edmonton Victorian Order Of Nurses Holds Annual Meet

Events of 30th Year of Organization Pass in Review at Board of Directors' Meeting Held in the Macdonald Hotel on Friday Afternoon

WRITING yet another chapter into the annals of the Victorian Order of Nurses in Edmonton, nurses and members have completed thirty years of service to the city and district, and, to view the events of this past year, they foregathered in the Macdonald hotel on Friday afternoon, Mrs. T. Harold Field, who is continuing on as president, presiding and His Excellency Archbishop J. H. MacDonald was guest speaker.

The purpose of the order—that of carrying nursing care and knowledge into every home in the city that requests it—is the never ending fight against disease and ignorance—has been amply exemplified in the work accomplished during the past year, annual reports read at the meeting revealed.

SUPERVISOR'S REPORT

In submitting her report of nursing activities, Miss Viola Leadley, supervising nurses' supervisor, said that 6,601 visits were made to 1,038 patients, an increase of 900 visits on 294 more patients than in 1938. To make these visits, the cars travelled 21,907 miles, an increase of 5,000 miles over the last year.

Edmonton has the services of three nurses, Miss Leadley, formerly of Winnipeg, Miss Velma North and Miss Ruth Bergey, all of whom, during the past year, these three—and Miss May Deane-Freeman before the marriage of Miss Leadley in November—travelled the highways and byways of Edmonton, bringing help, happiness and comfort to many sick beds. Every man, woman and child may have V.O.N. nursing care, if they so desire, Miss Leadley pointed out.

Tribute to Miss May Deane-Freeman who is in Montreal now, doing similar service to her six years of work in Edmonton was voiced by the president, secretary and supervisor in their reports.

SERVICES TO ALL

Visits were made by the nurses—as is their custom—to all who requested their services, regardless of wealth, color, creed or race. From the nurses' records until five o'clock each day of the week in each month during the year, the nurses were on call and gave of their time, knowledge and care to the sick in their charge.

Cases coming to their attention included maternity cases, child care and advice, chronic illnesses, emergency and surgery. Free services to those who cannot pay are given gladly, a nominal fee of one dollar is charged per visit to patients who can.

Education of nurses-to-be is a factor in the work of a V. O. N. unit and in her report Miss Leadley mentioned that classes from the Royal Alexandra and University hospitals received from two weeks to two months training in public health nursing with the V.O.N. nurses. Observation classes, lectures and demonstration of methods were also arranged for graduating classes of the hospitals.

PRESIDENT'S REPORT

"We have had a particularly happy year's work," said Mrs. T. Harold Field in her presidential report, thanking all who had cooperated with the executive. She thanked, especially, Mrs. A. L. Marks and Mrs. F. F. Woodhead, organizers of the house-to-house canvass in aid of V.O.N. funds. Tribute to the work of Miss Deane-Freeman and to the memory of the late Mrs. J. Harry Maddison was paid by Mrs. Field in warmest terms. Mrs. Maddison served with the board for many years, and through her spirit, talent and capabilities, did much to enrich the contribution the Order has made to the life of the city.

The auxiliaries of the V.O.N. prove staunch allies to the work of the order, and they show themselves untiring workers for the spreading of its influence.

TREASURER'S REPORT

The financial report submitted by Mrs. A. W. Hardy, revealed the gross receipts of the V.O.N. for the year to be $8,382. Financial prospect of the order for the coming year is good, a successful year has been completed, and there is a small balance in the bank.

SECRETARY'S REPORT

Mrs. Byron Morrison, secretary, gave a brief but interesting resume of the year's events in her report. Thirty-five members served on the executive, there were 10 regular meetings held. Events of the year number a fashion show convened by Mrs. A. S. Duclos and Mrs. Philip Jean; a club draw convened by Mrs. W. T. Rice; tag day arranged by the Lady Aberdeen League; the participation in the Royal Visit celebration by the V.O.N.; the house-to-house canvass and other events.

Miss Mary McCuaig, western supervisor of the V.O.N., made two visits to the city and her visits proved to be stimulating and pleasurable to nurses and board members alike.

Thanks to the city for the use of a room for V.O.N. work in the Civic building, to the interest and courtesy of His Worship the Mayor and members of the city council and the commissioners were voiced in Mrs. Field's report.

FLORENCE NIGHTINGALE

SENIOR group in the auxiliaries, the Florence Nightingale Auxiliary spent during the past twelve months more than $300 for the purchase of milk for needy families coming to the attention of the V.O.N. nurses. Besides this, they visited the patients, provided Christmas hampers, and made supplies for the nurses' cupboard. Linen, layettes, quilts, flannelette sheets were also their assignment for 1939. The auxiliary has thirty members and Mrs. R. K. Groff read the report.

LADY ABERDEEN

The upkeep of V.O.N. motor cars is the chief, but by no means the only, task members of the Lady Aberdeen League have pledged themselves to. During the year the sum of $765 was added to the account. Funds were raised by the following: A tea, a bridge party, a Macdonald hotel supper dance, sale of programs at rugby games, a Hallowe'en dance, donations and assistance with the V.O.N. tag day in October.

Christmas hampers for four families and articles of clothing, toys and gifts for needy families were all provided by the League members. Surgical dressings were made also, for the nurses' cupboard. Membership in the league number 31. Mrs. H. Reginald Hammond, president, gave the report.

CLUB VICTORIAN

Club Victorian members, numbering eighteen, carry on a creditable program of work, too, in aid of the V.O.N. In the report given by Miss Helen A. Jean it was shown that members had undertaken to supply all bandages, dressing and sterile supplies for the cupboard and the nurses' bags. They assisted with the house-to-house canvass, arranged classes in home-craft during the past year, and gave a Valentine dance, a fashion show and bridge and arranged a draw, all in aid of funds for the order. Their contribution amounted to $110 besides the amount expended in purchasing nursing supplies.

OFFICERS FOR 1940

Mrs. John Turner submitted the report naming the officers and board members for the coming year. Mrs. T. Harold Field will continue in the role of president, a role in which Mrs. J. Vereker will be first vice-president and Mrs. H. F. Bluck, Mrs. F. H. Norbury and Mrs. J. Bartleman will be second, third and fourth vice-presidents, respectively. Mrs. Turner's post will be filled by Mrs. Byron Morrison and that of treasurer by Mrs. A. L. Marks.

Social Services Of Future Must Work For State Betterment Says Convention Speaker

THE social services of the future must aim toward the conscious advancement of the well-being of every citizen and not merely at the distribution of the bitter drops called "public charity."

Such is the contention of Mrs. Freda Garland, convener of the child and family welfare committee of the United Farm Women of Alberta, and the one she shared when she addressed the Friday morning session of the U.F.W.A. convention in the Macdonald hotel.

GREATER NEED

"There can be little doubt," she said, "that the need for social services will become greater and the services themselves undergo extensions. It would be our aim not alone to bring in a more just and humane social and economic order, but during that transition period to recognize the natural rights of the human individual."

Warning of the grave danger that we may allow the war to distract attention too greatly from welfare activities, Mrs. Garland asserted that the need for these activities continues and will probably increase during the progress of the conflict. "They are certain to increase sharply when it is over," she concluded.

Mrs. J. B. Learned addressed the convention on "International Affairs," giving an outline of developments in Europe since the outbreak of war in early September.

Mrs. Amy Warr of Waskatenau, former president of the U.F.W.A., spoke briefly during the Friday morning session.

Resolution advocating the re-establishment of a grant from the Wheat Board Monies Trust to the Farm Young People's week held each year in June at the University was adopted. The grant was discontinued in 1936.

RESOLUTION

To make provision for a new transmitter of sufficient power to ensure provincial coverage by the University radio station CKUA, a resolution submitted by the U.F.W.A. board was carried unanimously by the convention. The resolution was proposed in the interest of people of rural and outlying areas who wish to benefit by the educational programs of the extension department radio facilities.

Resolution advocating that the salaries of the rural high school teachers be brought more on a parity with those of urban teachers was defeated. It was decided that the matter was one warranting the consideration of the Alberta Teachers' Association in advance of any effort on the part of the U.F.W.A.

City Nurses' Group Becomes Affiliated With Alberta Association Of Nurses

The Edmonton Association of Graduate Nurses at its annual meeting held Wednesday night at the Macdonald hotel was disbanded and replaced by the larger organization, the Edmonton District Branch of the Alberta Association of Registered Nurses. This organization will include nurses from Edmonton and surrounding districts.

Before terminating the business of the Edmonton Association the annual reports were given, and votes of thanks extended to the retiring executive. The president Miss Agnes Macleod, reviewed the year's activities. The purpose of nurses' organizations she said, is to provide greater service to the community, and to foster the cooperative spirit between the medical and nursing professions.

Miss K. Brighy, president of the Alberta Association of Registered Nurses, and nurses from neighboring districts were present for the organization of the Edmonton district branch. The following officers were elected: president, Miss Agnes Macleod, Edmonton; 1st vice-president, Miss Madeline McCulla, Lamont; 2nd vice-president, Rev. Sister Cecelia Claremont, Vegreville; secretary, Miss Catherine Clibborn, Edmonton; and treasurer, Mrs. J. Chorley, Edmonton. Those appointed to convene committees were Miss H. Peters, Miss M. Fraser, Miss L. Einerson.

Active or associate membership in the Edmonton district branch is open to all graduate nurses between Edmonton and Jasper, Whitecourt, Lac La Biche, Smith, Athabasca, Cold Lake, Lac La Biche, Vermilion, Tofield and Millet, it is announced.

The establishment of the Edmonton district branch will mean a more central source of interest and information and provides for increased fellowship between the members of the nursing profession in these areas.

Editor's Selection Of 10 Outstanding Women In U.S. A. Reveals Many Avenues Of Enterprise The Fair Sex Have Excelled In During 1939

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 19.—Durward Howes, editor of the biographical dictionary "American Women," recently made public his fourth annual selection of the 10 outstanding women in the United States. None is younger than 30.

"The 10 most prominent women of 1939 have become so by benefiting mankind," said Howes, "either through their talents, their scientific achievements, or their civic and social activities."

LIST OF NOTABLES

Listed alphabetically, they are: Lila Bell Acheson, Pleasantville, N.Y., editor of "The Reader's Digest," because, with her husband, she founded and has carried on the first magazine of its kind in the United States.

Katherine Burr Blodgett, Schenectady, N.Y., research worker, because she made scientific history by developing a long-sought and eminently practical glare-proof glass.

MOTHER IS HONORED

Mrs. Elias Compton, Wooster, O., because she is the only woman ever to receive an honorary LL.D., for motherhood. She is the mother of the famous men, Arthur H. Compton, Nobel Prize winning physicist; Karl T. Compton, college president, and Wilson M. Compton, lawyer, Washington.

Bette Davis, Hollywood, twice winner of the Motion Picture Academy Award for excellence in acting. She has never turned in a poor performance and her colleagues vote her a "good scout."

Anne Hummert, New York City, former newspaperwoman who successfully invaded the radio field. She is vice-president of a company which buys more radio time than any other concern and is the largest producer of radio material.

Rita Maxwell, New York City, Iowa born celebrity who has become known as the champion party giver.

NEWSPAPER WOMAN

Anne O'Hare McCormick, New York City, foreign correspondent, and member of the New York Times editorial board. She is one of the best informed American journalists on foreign politics and world affairs.

Anna Eleanor Roosevelt, wife of the president, because she has brought to the White House an atmosphere of pleasant domesticity and, at the same time, like any good American housewife, has found time to "help the neighbors". She has ignored precedent after precedent and still managed to survive public favor until now she occupies a unique and enviable place in American annals.

BECAUSE OF COURAGE

Nora Wain, Philadelphia, author of "Reaching for the Moon" because of her courage in writing of conditions abroad exactly as she saw them.

Margaret Webster, New York City, daughter of Dame May Whitty, because she has won fame in her own right with her fine talents for acting, directing and producing. She directed Maurice Evans' unique "Hamlet" and Shakespearean performances at the New York world fair.

Smart Distinction for the Older Woman

3102 SIZES 16-50

You can't help feeling your best when you are dressed becomingly. The older woman knows the importance of simplicity in dress. Made in a dark warm wine or brown it is a fitting complement to your dark winter coat.

Style No. 3102 is designed for sizes 16, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48 and 50. Size 36 requires 4 yards of 39-inch material.

Send fifteen cents (15c) in coin for pattern. Write plainly your name, address and style number. Be sure to state size you wish. Address order to The Edmonton Bulletin, Pattern Department, Edmonton, Alberta.

Over one hundred brand new styles . . . plus many exciting fashion hints are included in our Fall and Winter Fashion Book. Send for your copy now! The price is just 15 cents.

Minute Make-Ups

Coiffures are as individual as fashions, this season. The predominating style, today, is the up-in-front and down-in-the-back coiffure. It is long enough to be manageable for other arrangements. It takes a bow in the back or can be combed off the neck in the evening.

What To Do

The other evening I was dancing with another girl and he remarked —"Betty certainly is a good dancer." Do you think he meant to insinuate that I wasn't and what should I have said? MISS L.T.C.

Answer—I'm sure his comment about the other girl's dancing didn't necessarily mean that he disapproved of yours. Boys sometimes have a queer way of phrasing a compliment. No doubt he made the remark about Betty's dancing as a bit of conversation. You should have been good sportsmanship by agreeing—"Betty does dance very well," or "I agree with you that Betty dances beautifully." Maybe you have difficulty with some of the little, intricate steps and your confidence may have taken a sudden little downward dip. Why not improve your dancing so the boys will have every reason to praise your dancing to other girls?

FEMALE PAIN
Women who suffer painful, irregular periods with nervous moody spells due to functional cause, should try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made especially to help weak, rundown women during such "trying times." Try it!

Raising A Family

Mother used to croon lullabies and hum as she worked:

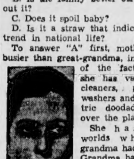

A. Why doesn't she now?

B. Is the family better off without it?

C. Does it spoil baby?

D. Is it a straw that indicates a trend in national life?

To answer "A" first, mother is busier than great-grandma, in spite of the fact that she has vacuum cleaners, patent washers and electric goodness all over the place.

She has ten worlds where great-grandma had one. Grandma had her home and mother has her home and a dozen other things besides.

No one sings who is in a hurry. No one sings with something just one jump ahead to be caught up with. We don't think of moonlight when we're running for a train.

So that's why few mothers sing now, or at least one reason.

No, the radio isn't entirely to blame, not unless it's a neighbor's radio. Her own radio can be silenced any time. Why should others chisel in on her rights as a singer?

The family is losing a lot these days. It used to be something to come in from school and hear mother singing softly, "Kitty of the Glen" as she let down Polly's dresses in the sewing room, or "Three Little Maids from School," as she put the taste salt in the soup.

That meant that mother was happy and contented, and oh, boy, it was great to know that. With her happy, sane way everything fell into place. The cross old teacher and mean Johnny Spriggs and even the fishy underwear didn't mean a thing.

That answers "B", doesn't it?

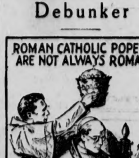

Now for "C". I sang to my babies and rocked them, too, when I felt like it. Maybe a nudge of conscience made me put them down before they became too expectant, but in their second and third years, or thereabouts, I rocked them often and sang lullabies.

Yes, the passing of mother's voice does show a trend.

To use vernacular, something seems to be eating us. We have stopped living for today in crossing tomorrow's bridges, or maybe just wondering about tomorrow's rainbows.

But I think it is bridges mostly. We are not too far gone, however, to jerk ourselves up by the bootstraps, come back to the present and live today, calmly and contentedly—and sing.

Many people believe that the Pope must always be a Roman, or Italian, but a look at history shows many non-Italian Popes. Between 680 and 752 AD. there were nine Greek or Syrian Oriental Popes; from 996 to 1002, Emperor Otto III put an Austrian and a Frankish Pope in Rome; Henry III of Germany imposed four German Popes on the Italian Vatican between 1046 and 1057; and in the fourteenth century there were seven French Popes. Whoever is the Bishop of Rome is automatically the Pope, or the head of the Universal Roman Catholic Church

Ham Will Brighten Aspect Of Veal Chops

By MRS. GAYNOR MADDOX

A little ham will brighten the aspect of the most humble of veal chops. And a few fresh vegetables will put new brightness into a cutlet.

VEAL CHOPS WITH HAM
(Serves 4 to 6)

Six rib veal chops (pocketed), 3 tablespoons chopped cooked ham, 3 tablespoons chopped mushrooms, 3 tablespoons butter, 1½ tablespoons chopped onion, 6 tablespoons dry bread crumbs, ½ teaspoons salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, 1 cup water or meat stock, 4½ tablespoons flour.

Take a piece of suet from chops, saute in pan until sizzling. Dredge chops with salt, pepper and 2-3 of the flour. Brown chops well in suet. Blend the ham in the pan with the remaining flour, add water or stock and cook until thick and smooth. Place flour mixture in bottom of baking dish. Mix mushrooms, ham, onion, melted butter and bread crumbs together, moistening with one tablespoon gravy. Stuff the chops with this mixture and secure with toothpicks. Set the chops in the gravy and bake in hot oven (425 deg. F.) for 25 minutes.

BAKED VEAL CUTLETS

Dorothy Dix Says:

"Does marriage really assimilate a man and woman who have been reared with different habits and tastes and points of view and make them two souls with but a single thought, a fact which that beat us one, as the poet says?" asks a girl.

"Now, I am engaged to a young man who is apparently the answer to any maiden's prayer for a husband," she continues. "He is handsome and intelligent. He is already making a mark in his profession and I am head over heels in love with him. But his ideas about marriage and life are so antagonistic to mine that I am wondering if we can ever reconcile them.

"To begin with, he believes that the husband should be the sole supreme ruler and dictator of the family and that the wife's mission is to yes-yes her husband, make him comfortable and bear him children. He says that he would never even consider giving his wife an allowance for the housekeeping and for herself. He says that is the way his father treats his mother and it is the way he intends to treat his wife. Now I have been brought up under an entirely different idea. My father considers money a servant instead of a master, and, while we have always lived within our means, we have indulged ourselves in all the pleasures and comforts we could afford. Besides that, I am a competent business woman, with a good salary and when I think of the chances of my successful, tightfisted fiance changing into a considerate, generous husband, or of me being metamorphosed into an unpaid household drudge, I get jittery. Yet my fiance says that as soon as we are married I will see that he is right and do his way and like it. But I wonder. And am afraid."

"You do well to be afraid," I told this girl, "for of all the fallacies that have ever been preached about marriage none is so unfounded, or has done as much harm, as that which leads young people to believe that there is some magic in the marriage ceremony that changes natures and characters of men and women from what they are to what their mates wish them to be.

"If you want to be happy though married you must pick out the kind of wives or husbands you want to begin with instead of befooling yourself into thinking that you can make them over to your liking after you get them. It can't be done."

Royal Duchesses Join Empire Women Doing War-Time Work

LONDON, Jan. 19—The Duchesses of Gloucester and Kent are as busy as ever, although the functions they normally attend in peacetime have been curtailed drastically. Both are doing war work of various kinds, as are women all through the British Empire, and carry out during the day semi-private engagements considered with war charities and similar activities.

While her husband is in France on the staff of Viscount Gort, the Duchess of Gloucester spends much time at her home in Northamptonshire, where she takes a leading part in most women's war organizations in the country.

As all male members of the household are engaged in war duties of various kinds, the Duchess to a considerable extent attends personally to large daily correspondence and other secretarial duties, aided by a lady-in-waiting.

ACTIVE MEMBER

The Duchess of Kent also is an active member of various committees and associations, but unlike the Duchess of Gloucester she has so far been separated from her husband by the war.

When the Duke received an appointment as rear admiral in Scotland the Royal couple took a house near his headquarters and have lived there ever since. They have been separated, however, from their two children, Prince Edward and Princess Alexandra, who are living in a "safe" area.

Although the house which they have rented is small, the Duchess has been able to add to her other activities the role of hostess for many of the Duke's brother officers and their wives during leave periods.

HAS TREATED COLDS SAME WAY FOR 15 YEARS
A Strathroy, Ont., father writes . . .
"We have had Vicks VapoRub in our medicine cabinet for the past 15 years and it has the call whenever colds strike". There's only one reason for such loyalty—home-proved VapoRub relieves misery of colds.

Vancouver Bread Price Increased

Broomhall

The Washington weather bureau gives the depth of snow on January 15 as follows: Missouri, Kansas city, nil; Lemar, 3 inches; Marysville, nil; Springfield, 3 inches; Kansas, Colby, 6 inches; Dodge City, 2 inches; Topeka, 10 inches; Wichita, 5 inches; Nebraska, Lincoln, 9 inches; North Platte, 6 inches; Omaha, 11 inches; O'Neil, nil; Valentine, 7 inches. Much has melted since then and much has drifted. However, light falls of new snow have been reported this week, whic hwill afford some protection against the present sub zero temperatures. American wheat prices keep well above the international export level and with the subsidy withdrawn there is little chance of selling wheat to the Orient where there is reported to be a shortage. The American winter wheat crop prospects are very poor but the crop is dormant.

ALLIED POWERS FIGHTING WAR OF PRINCIPLE

PARIS, Jan. 19. — Sir Ronald Campbell, British ambassador to France, told the American Club of Paris Thursday that the Allies "are fighting a war of principle, a war for every man's inalienable right, in Jefferson's words, 'to life, liberty "and the pursuit of happiness.'

"This very principle," the ambassador said, "was blatantly challenged in favor of a doctrine, acceptance of which would reverse the whole current of history and would indeed destroy the very basis of international and private life: The doctrine that might is right.

"For our part, what could we do but accept the challenge? And the weapon of force being, very naturally, force, and in this case indiscriminate force, by force we must meet it, fighting as cleanly as we can."

Alberta Oils

CALGARY, Jan. 19.—All trading on Calgary Stock Exchange this forenoon was in odd-lots, most of which showed fractional gains. Transfers totalled 7,370 shares.

How Well Do You See?

By Jackson Bros., Optometrist

Everyone wants to see well. Everyone wants good eyes, and not just for today; but eyes which will carry him or her through their daily tasks and remain workable for a lifetime. But not everyone recognizes that more than vision is at stake. Yet such is the case; for eye strain is more than muscle strain, it is nerve strain, and the nerve strain ordinarily originating in the eyes has far-reaching manifestations. It is not surprising that eye strain results in headaches. But this is only a small part of the story.

An eminent authority states: Our bodies are indeed odd things. There may be something wrong in one organ that produces strange and unusual symptoms, not in the organ itself, but in some part of the body, perhaps remote from the diseased or irritated organ. For instance, who ever thinks about indigestion or backache as being due to eyestrain. And still such is the actual case. There are few derangements indeed that have such far-reaching effect on the nervous system, digestive system, and on the general physical condition as defective eyesight. And all these difficulties are in addition to being unable to see easily, clearly and normally. Science know these facts, but the average individual has, unfortunately, remained ignorant of them. It is the Optometrists' duty to inform those who may be suffering needless handicap of the truth which may mean so much to them, and our message to all such, is this: Have your eyes examined at regular intervals so as to catch any deficiencies in their earliest stages.

Jackson Bros., have the finest instruments known to science, and their registered Optometrist will give your eyes a thorough eyesight examination.

If you need glasses you can have the use of them while paying for them, by using our well-established easy pay plan in weekly or monthly payments.

CITY LIBRARY BUILDS FUND EXTRA BOOKS

$3,000 Saving In Binding Branch—Ald. Paterson Chairman

Decision made Thursday night by members of the Edmonton public library board to discontinue the bindery department will make available approximately $3,000 for purchase of new books and other library activities.

Ald. A. Blair Paterson was re-elected chairman of the board, and standing committees for 1940 were named.

Cost of operation of the bindery department last year was approximately $5,000, this being considered out of proportion for the size of the library and the appropriation available.

Tenders for alterations to the South Side library were opened and ordered referred to the city architect's office for tabulation and report.

Vandervear Living

It was reported Friday that Frank Vandervear, 26, of 9613 107 street, is in the Royal Alexandra hospital with a bullet lodged within his Skull, passed a good night and his condition seemed to be about the same. He was found wandering in the West End of the city Monday suffering from a bullet wound which police believe was self-inflicted.

Through The Mill

They've been living in unholy deadlock for years and finally the other night the battle got too hot for her and she whipped down to tell her story to the cops. So, just to get the matter all settled, she laid a charge of uttering threats against the husband.

In police court Friday she alleged that he had threatened to shoot her with a .22 calibre rifle. "I never threatened her. I said she ought to be shot—that that was what she needed. But I never said I was going to do it," countered the accused.

* * *

But, just in case, the cadi ordered him to post a bond of $300 as evidence of his intentions to keep the old refrain from hurting his lovely dove.

Delegates Named

Members of the Northern Alberta Rink and Curling League met in the Corona hotel Thursday evening and heard E. S. Russenholt, of Winnipeg, outline the activities of Ducks Unlimited during the past year. He traced the work of the organization in building dams and conserving water levels in duck breeding grounds throughout the north. The meeting also named George A. Kellie, Barry Galbraith, Dr. C. W. Wilson and Dr. H. F. Messenger to be delegates to the provincial convention of Game Leagues in Calgary, Jan. 22.

Complete Revision Now Is Planned On Early Closing Law

Steps for drastic revision of the city's early closing by-law and to obtain a charter amendment to revise the list of "exemptions" or articles which may be sold after closing hours, were started Thursday by the civic bylaws committee.

Among proposed changes in the bylaw, which will be prepared in the form of a resolution by City Solicitor T. E. Garside, K.C., are provisions that stores which sell any articles which are not exempted must close at 6 p.m. and at 1 p.m. on Wednesdays, also that purchasers as well as storekeepers be charged and fined for buying after closing hours or on Sundays. Loss of license on third offence also is proposed.

ASK PROTECTION

The committee went into plans for revision of the early closing bylaw when a delegation of Edmonton butchers appeared and asked for protection from small general merchants who handled meats and were permitted to stay open for sale of exempted articles. These merchants, they claimed, also sold meat after hours.

A petition had been sent in by 54 butchers asking that a $25 license be charged to meat vendors and not collected against business tax. The committee agreed to this two weeks ago but council referred the question back to them.

The committee was unanimous, Thursday, in the opinion that the bylaw enforcement could be simplified if every merchant handling anything besides exempted articles was required to close his store at regular closing hours.

MUST CLOSE

For instance, a store selling confectioneries may be permitted to remain open at night and on holidays for sale of these articles but, if he sells groceries and confectioneries, he must close.

"It useless to expect our police to enforce the bylaw as it stands at present," Mayor John W. Fry said, "if we simplify it, we can enforce it."

The committee also gave approval to the following charter amendments to be applied for at the coming legislative session: fixing a maximum speed limit, licenses for bicycles owned by persons living outside the city and using city streets, power to change the outer zone mill rate, penalties for license fees not paid on due date, revision of the "exemptions" list in connection with the early closing bylaw.

CHICAGO FIRM GETS CONTRACT FAIR PROGRAM

Grandstand entertainment at the Edmonton summer fair, to be held July 15 to 20, inclusive, will be provided by the theatrical production firm of Barnes and Carruthers, Chicago, it was announced by P. W. Abbott, K.C., managing-director of the Edmonton Exhibition Association, who arrived in Edmonton Friday morning after attending the annual meeting of the Western Canada Association of Expositions held at Winnipeg.

Mr. Abbott will stop over in Edmonton for a few days and will leave for the Pacific coast to continue his sick leave.

Contract for the midway attractions was let to the Royal American shows.

Members of the Edmonton delegation to the meeting were: Mr. Abbott; C. E. Wilson, president of the Exhibition Association; F. W. Kemp, past president; L. S. Williams and Ald. James H. Ogilvie.

The Inquiring Reporter

THE QUESTION

"What is your opinion on the adage, 'Spare the rod and spoil the child'?" asks Ruth A. Sellick of Bon Accord. She gets a dollar for the question.

THE ANSWERS

GEORGE BERNSTEIN, hotel employee: While I'm by no means a believer in corporal punishment, I believe parents should be firm with their youngsters. Many parents forget they are moulding their children's character and that by giving them their own way they are only spoiling them —something that will make it tough on the young ones as they grow older.

DAVE COLLIER, engineer: I don't think the rod should be used too lavishly. This method is out-of-date. There are other methods, equally effective, of being firm with children. If they have to make sacrifices when they do wrong they'll soon learn there's no profit in it. For instance, no candy or movies this week if they've been bad.

* * *

PETER RULE, architect: If a child's life could be planned like an architect's drawing everything would balance, but there would not be any fun for the kids. But parents should adopt some sort of a plan in bringing up children. A sharp smack on the spot where it hurts helps sometimes, but this method shouldn't be overdone.

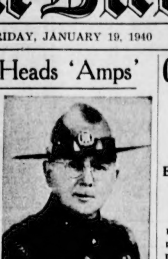

Stevens Coming

ONTARIO PRICE OF LIQUOR ONLY ALBERTA LEVEL

Ontario liquor prices now are at levels which correspond to the Alberta prices, J. A. King, chairman of the Alberta Liquor Control Board said Friday. Reductions recently made by the eastern province, he said, were merely to adjust sharp boosts made at the time Ottawa imposed its special $3-a-gallon duty.

Mr. King pointed out that Quebec and Ontario liquor prices always should be lower than those of Alberta by reason of the shorter water and rail haul from the source of supply.

Yet, when the special duty was imposed in September, the Quebec prices were boosted higher than Alberta's and Ontario's were pressed to about the same. The recent adjustment in Ontario is to bring them down to the same relationship as prior to the special impost.

DR. G. M. LITTLE, HEALTH OFFICER, AGAIN AT POST

Dr. G. M. Little returned this week to his post as city medical officer of health after being on active service with the Royal Canadian Army Medical Corps since the outbreak of war.

In order that he might return to his work for the city, Dr. Little was transferred by the army to the reserve of officers from his post as officer commanding No. 13 field hygiene section R.C.A.M.C.

For the post of commanding a field hygiene section the army does not require a medical officer of the training and qualifications held by Dr. Little, so his transfer to the reserve was effected.

Dr. Little returned to his office in the Local Board of Health offices on Monday, January 15.

While he was on active service Dr. Walter Morrish, M.L.A., was acting medical officer of health on a part time basis and receiving half pay.

Corps President To Speak In City Saturday Night

Making his first visit to Edmonton since his election as Dominion president of the Canadian Corps Association, Lieut.-Col. Reynolds, D.S.O., M.C., will address a special meeting of the Edmonton branch of the association at the Masonic Temple on Saturday night at 8 o'clock.

Col. Reynolds has been in England since the outbreak of war and is fully cognizant with the situation in the Old Country and the Empire's war efforts, having made a special trip to investigate the British position and get a line on what the dominions and colonies can best do to implement the efforts of the Mother Country.

Word of the president's visit to Edmonton was only received on Friday morning, but it is essential that all members of the Canadian Corps Association be at Saturday night's meeting to meet him and hear his message.

Henry W. Givins of Vancouver, superintendent of western branches of The Huron and Erie Mortgage Corporation and The Canada Trust Company, and well known in Edmonton, is retiring from active business after 50 years with these financial institutions. He is retiring on pension and will continue to reside in Vancouver.

GRITS STUDY ORGANIZATION CITY PARLEY

Election Plans Will Be Talked By Executive Saturday

Organization of the Liberal Party for both the federal and provincial elections which are expected to take place in a few months will be discussed at the Liberal executive meeting Saturday afternoon at the Macdonald hotel, E. L. Gray, M.L.A., Alberta Liberal leader, said Friday.

Mr. Gray said some executive members would be coming more than 300 miles in order to be present at the meeting.

Robert Barrowman of Lethbridge, president of the Alberta Liberal Association, will be chairman at the Saturday meeting.

MOTION LAUDS GRAY

Reports from Calgary Friday indicated that a resolution will be submitted to the executive from Liberals in that city endorsing the efforts of Mr. Gray "to restore responsible government to Alberta" and urging greater effort to give Mr. Gray "the support to which he is entitled."

Mr. Gray said he would be meeting out-of-town delegates Saturday morning, informally, to discuss with them matters of party organization in their own districts.

Declining to make any comment on the agenda that would be up for discussion, Mr. Gray said he thought the executive would conclude its business late Saturday afternoon. If previous executive meetings are a precedent, the meeting on Saturday will be mainly concerned with provincial matters.

CO-OPERATION

At the general council meeting of the party in Red Deer last June a motion was carried allowing the question of co-operation with other parties in the provincial field to be settled by a majority vote of Liberals in each riding.

Review of the results that have flowed from that decision will likely come up for discussion, it was learned. Party activities for the provincial field, of which a tentative draft already has been issued, may also be elaborated.

A-R-O-U-N-D . . . THE TOWN

There were 96,695 licensed radio sets in Alberta at the end of 1939, as compared with 83,000 at the corresponding time in 1938, figures released Friday revealed. Of these Edmonton had 19,953, Calgary 18,-127, Red Deer 883, Wainwright 831, Camrose 778, and Drumheller 860.

Annual convention of the Alberta Dairymen's Association will be held at the Palliser hotel, Calgary, on Feb. 14, 15 and 16, it was announced here Friday by officials of the organization. D. H. McCallum, provincial dairy commissioner, is secretary of the association. The association includes sections for producers, dairy cattle breeders, buttermakers, cheesemakers, manufacturers and others.

Time limit for geological examination of reservations of petroleum and natural gas rights, the property of the crown, has been extended until March 31, according to government officials. This extension is applicable to reservations in good standing as at Dec. 15, 1939. Those taking advantage of the extension will be required to pay a fee of one cent an acre for each month. Representations were made to the government for this extension, it being pointed out that unsettled conditions due to the war had brought difficulties to the completion of information on locations.

Pleading guilty Friday in supreme court to theft of a $55 cheque, Mike Yaniw, Edmonton, was remanded by Mr. Justice A. F. Ewing to the March sittings of the criminal court for sentence. The cheque, property of G. L. Mathews, employee of Oliver Limited, was lost in the entrance of an Edmonton theatre. The accused saw an employee of the theatre pick it up and obtained possession of it through representing that it was "a receipt." Later he cashed the cheque at an Edmonton store. The accused has been in jail for two months awaiting trial, it was disclosed by his counsel, R. Fred Jackson, who asked for a remand to enable him to make restitution.

BLACKOUT

By RUTH AYERS

CAST OF CHARACTERS

MARY CARROLL, American fashion expert, in London during wartime.

VINCENT GREGG, soldier of fortune, in love with Mary.

CARLA MARCHETTA, a mysterious London socialite.

DR. GILBERT LENOX, surgeon, serving with British army.

Yesterday: The operation restores the real Mary Carroll to life and happiness. She writes Gilbert, expressing her gratitude. Then she summons Vincent. He is overjoyed to find her, but the figure of Carla stands between them. Vincent begs for a chance to regain their former happiness. Mary does not answer.

CHAPTER XXI

MARY remained in the hospital a week longer.

In that week, Vincent was at her bedside almost continuously. His flowers made a florist's shop of her room. Awaiting her in the morning on her breakfast tray were notes from him amusing and endearing.

They'd reached an agreement at last. They would forget the last few weeks of their lives since the Moravia disaster and start all over. As soon as it could be arranged, her marriage to Gilbert would be annulled and she and Vincent would return to America.

If Mary would awake sometimes at night and remember Gilbert's gray eyes and the boyish unruly red hair, she'd brush the thought aside. If she would pause sometimes in looking at Vincent to wonder if Carla's lips had flamed to his, she would shut out the picture.

"There could never be anyone but you," Vincent would tell her, his old assurance returning. "Smitten—that's me. Crazy, goofy, simply hopped."

That stolid British nurse, Miss Babcock, sometimes made Mary nervous by her silent disapproval. A married woman—Dr. Gilbert Lenox's wife—to have so attentive a visitor. Mary could almost read her thoughts.

It was because of this that Mary refused to let Vincent take her home. "Afraid of a scandal, aren't you, sweet?" he teased.

She couldn't explain to him, but there was another reason. It wouldn't be fair to let Vincent go with her to Gilbert's rooms, so intimate with all that belonged to him.

In the days after she was home, Vincent seemed to relax. "We'll soon be out of this," he promised, as he took her for daily walks. "You and I—back to Manhattan. You and I, Mister and Missus, just as we'd planned before all this happened."

Tea in hidden-away teashops. Dinner at night and the walk home in blackout, arm in arm. But she couldn't bring herself to let Vincent come inside. Their good night kiss was at the door.

"Your kisses aren't the same," Vincent accused her one night, drawing away sharply. "Is there some crazy idea in your head that makes you think I'm not on the level with you?"

"No—no, of course not. It's only—well, I'm not over what happened yet."

But deeply within her, Mary knew something was different. She fought off her strange feeling.

The next morning, her thoughts still perplexing her, Mary took her drawing board to Hyde Park, hoping to forget the scene with Vincent in finding something amusing to sketch.

Newsboys were shouting. Mary read the apron banners they wore. "Moravia Sinking Reopened."

It had come, then! Miss Babcock was right. There was to be another investigation into the mysterious sinking of the ship. She would be a witness.

She bought a paper reading hastily through the story. The name of Anna Winters leaped up before her eyes. She read—"Among those to be called for questioning will be Anna Winters, 23, of Bournemouth, now living in London."

For a minute, Mary thought of Anna—so beautiful and ethereal in the flame red dress on the night the Moravia went down. Then she brushed all thoughts aside except of the coming hearing at Scotland Yard. She'd promised Miss Babcock she'd tell all she knew. Was there, after all, so much to tell? The young man on board who'd followed her, Carla Marchetta's friend. The sight of the periscope in the water before the final crash.

Mary was flushed and breathless when she reached her rooms.

"Oh, hello, sorry to startle you."

A commanding figure in well-tailored uniform rose from the chair. Gilbert Lenox!

Mary threw her hands to her face. "Oh, Gilbert!"

He stepped to her and drew her hands away, staring at the newfound loveliness.

"Jove, you're stunning! I knew you must have been beautiful, but I'd no idea it would be like this."

He was studying her face, his eyes hungry. "Look at me!"

Mary's dark lashes swept up. She felt the pulse in her throat beating wildly. "Do you know now?" she whispered.

Gilbert drew back, his hands thrust into his pockets as if he were keeping them purposely clenched.

"Once you tried to tell me something in the hospital," he began slowly. "I couldn't understand it then. Now I know what you meant. You're the girl in the restaurant—you're the girl from home."

"Yes—I'm that girl. I'm not Anna Winters—I'm Mary Carroll."

"Funny thing, I couldn't forget you, and although I could never explained it, you and Anna Winters were mixed up in my mind. Something about you was the same. So I didn't marry a girl named Anna Winters—I married an American, Mary Carroll. Your voice—your face, everything is just the way I remember you in the restaurant."

Mary ran toward him with a glad cry. "You forgive me then for masquerading as Anna? It all happened so quickly—reading I was dead—knowing I had Anna Winter's things, her passport. And I had to stay in London. It was my only chance to be near Vincent Gregg, the man I'm going to marry."

Mary gasped as she realized what she had said. Why had she blurted it out? She might have spared Gilbert some of the hurt. But Gilbert must have expected this. He had known there was someone else. Lenox took the blow smiling.

"Of course," he said at length, but all the eagerness had gone out of his voice and eyes. "I'd forgotten for a minute. It's all right, though. I knew all along you were in love with Vincent. You can have your freedom wherever you like."

Mary whispered, "Thanks," amazed because she felt no elation.

Gilbert turned and began to slip into his officer's overcoat. Mary came close to him, touching the braid timidly. "Are you leaving so soon? I thought perhaps you'd come home to stay. I—it would be nice if I could talk to you again, to thank you for everything."

Gilbert Lenox was brusque as he answered. "No, I'm here only for a few days. Came back to supervise the preparation of some special serum for gunshot wound cases. It's being made up in our London hospital laboratory. I'll be at the hospital while I'm here so you may keep there rooms until you've made your own plans."

Mary Carroll should have been relieved that he was going away—glad now that this scene, which had to come—was over. He intended keeping his bargain. She could have her freedom. She could be Vincent's wife.

"Best of luck if I don't see you again," Gilbert was saying as he shook her hand.

Mary knew in that instant that she was in love with Gilbert Lenox—madly, poignantly in love with him.

AGRICULTURE TO GIVE HELP WAR SUPPLIES

Prof. Sackville Talks On Market Conditions At Course Here

Canadian farmers generally and livestock producers as a group are prepared and anxious to lend their full support and co-operation to any reasonable plans that will support their country and that of the Allies in the struggle in which they are now engaged, Prof. J. P. Sackville, of the animal husbandry department, University of Alberta, declared, in addressing the agriculture short course attendants at the Masonic Temple Thursday.

The one-day short course was held in connection with the provincial and district seed fairs. The three events were concluded Thursday.

In addition to Prof. Sackville, speakers at the Thursday short course included W. T. G. Weiner, secretary, Canadian Seed Growers' Association and Dr. R. D. Sinclair, U. of A.

A women's section was held on Thursday afternoon, under the auspices of the agricultural extension service and the Edmonton branch of the Alberta Women's Institute.

FARMING PRACTICE

Speaking on "The Present Status of the Livestock Industry," Prof. Sackville declared:

"Livestock production, in common with any type of agricultural production, to be successful cannot be separated from what is recognized as good farming practice. In a word, good farm practice is, first, proper utilization of land—producing in any particular area those crops for which that area is best adapted; second, conservation of soil fertility."

Available markets was another important point, he said. There were 85,000,000 acres of land already improved in Canada and 37,000,000 acres devoted to field crops alone and but 11,000,000 people within Canadian boundaries. Of these, 700,000 were, on the land. Therefore, he said, it was obviously impossible to find a satisfactory market within a country under these conditions. Export markets, therefore, became important and Canada was in competition with countries producing similar commodities. In the prairie provinces 30,000,000 acres normally were devoted to export crops.

He said that "with a view to showing how we have been shifting from pillar to post in our export shipments, I may give you the figures for the past two years and these are typical of what has occurred for many years. In 1938, Canada exported to Great Britain 25,000 head and less than 100,000 head to the United States. Last year conditions were reversed, 180,000 head to the southern market and only around 1,000 overseas. Until we are in a more fortunate position than at present with respect to an outlet for Canadian surplus cattle there is not likely to be a great deal of stability to our beef industry."

LIMITED IMPORTS

Looking into this year, he said that the export demand would have to be considered and this would apply to Britain. For obvious reasons, Britain would have to limit imports of food to the minimum, as question of ocean space, high insurance rates and exchange had to be dealt with. Also Britain was anxious to hold living costs to a reasonable level; also Britain and France already had made heavy purchases of food commodities from non-Empire countries to prevent it getting to enemy countries.

This indicated demand for certain Canadian food products may not only be limited, but the price paid may be below that of the previous year.

Developments recently indicated what might be expected for the next eight months in the swine industry and that was a market up to 5,600,000 pounds a week, together with a price at seaboard that will net producers approximately eight cents a pound live-weight.

DAIRYMEN BENEFIT

"It would appear that the dairymen will benefit owing to overseas demand for certain dairy products," he said. Cheese was another commodity for which there would be a demand.

He declared that "It is doubtful if war conditions in Britain will result in any immediate demand for Canadian beef in large quantities and that might be associated with any material advance in price."

"Probably the greatest hope for Canadian beef cattle producers will be a stimulated demand both domestic and export to the United States due to increased industrial activity."

Regarding horse, Prof. Sackville said that "There is no serious marketing problem with respect to either mutton or wool, which in turn means the sheep business is in a fairly healthy condition."

FEWER HORSES NEEDED

Regarding horses, Prof. ackville said that "During the present year exports have fallen off to some extent in keeping with a lessening demand. Modern warfare, so highly mechanized, does not call for the supply of horses that was the case 25 years ago and for this reason it is doubtful if present hostilities will develop any big demand for Canadian horses."

He said that "It is somewhat difficult at this early stage of the European war to predict what effect it may have on the price of farm commodities. It would appear that an effort will be made this time to avoid any spectacular rise in prices as was the case a quarter of a century ago. It is even possible that some system of fixed prices may become a temporary policy as has already been the case with hog products."

W. T. G. Weiner, secretary of the Canadian Seed Growers' Association, addressed the meeting on "The Canadian Seed Growers' Association and its Contribution to Crop Improvement." He especially paid tribute to the work boys and girls had done for better seed in early days.

Dr. R. D. Sinclair of the University of Alberta led a discussion on "Reducing Costs in Swine Production," in which he gave much valuable information.

The exhibits of some of the seed fair will continue at the Masonic Temple Friday, although all other sessions are concluded.

They Debate Here Tonight

BRUCE MACDONALD

MORRIS SCHUMIATCHER

Taking the affirmative side of the question, "Resolved that a United States of Europe at the close of the present war would be conducive to a permanent and lasting European peace," Bruce Macdonald, third-year commerce student at the University of Alberta, and Morris Schumiatcher, Calgary, second-year law student, will debate at Convocation Hall at 8:30 p.m. tonight (Friday). They will argue against Clarence Estey and Richard Motherwell, of the Saskatchewan university in the inter-varsity debate for the McGoun trophy. Dr. W. A. R. Kerr, president of the university, will preside.

POTATO GRADING WILL BE SOUGHT ALBERTA TRADE

Legislation will be sought by the Edmonton Market Gardeners Association to require grading and inspecting of potatoes offered for sale throughout Alberta, on the basis of Dominion government standards, it was decided at a meeting of the association held at the Masonic Temple Thursday in connection with the provincial and district seed fairs and agricultural short course.

Hon. D. B. Mullen, minister of agriculture, already has been interviewed with a view to introducing the required legislation.

M. F. Finnemore, Edmonton, president of the association presided at the meeting and gave an account of activities leading up to the request for the legislation.

It was pointed out that Dominion marketing legislation only applies to interprovincial and not provincial marketing and therefore, any kind of potatoes can be marketed in the provinces. Interprovincial trade requires grading.

The meeting of the association was addressed by M. C. Crosby of the provincial agriculture department.

Mother Seeking $10,000 Damages For Son's Death

CALGARY, Jan. 19. — Suit for $10,000 and costs arising from an accident will be started against John Frederick McDougall, of Edmonton, who will appear in criminal court next week on a manslaughter charge concerning the same fatality, according to a statement of claim filed in supreme court.

On October 8, 1939, McDougall, driving a car, struck and killed Donald George Burns, 13, of Olds, who was riding his bicycle on the main highway. Mrs. Blanche Burns, the boy's mother, the plaintiff, was deserted by her husband several years ago.

She claims the lad helped support her and that she had looked forward to his contribution to her welfare in years to come.

LEGION NOW GAINS POWER PARLEY TOLD

W. R. McLaren Again President—$500,000 Drive Aids Soldiers

Prediction that when the present war is over the Canadian Legion of the British Empire Service League will be the strongest organization in Canada was made by Walter R. McLaren, elected to his fifth term as president of the Edmonton branch at the annual meeting of the organization in the Memorial Hall Thursday night.

The Legion is planning to raise a fund of $500,000 to aid in the rehabilitation of members of the C.A.S.F. on their return to this country when the war is over," President McLaren revealed. "Even now we have nearly 1,500 branches across Canada, but then we'll be the largest organization in the dominion."

JOBS FOR VETS

The meeting passed two resolutions. The first called to the attention of all governmental agencies the promise of ranking government officials that "insofar as they are available ex-servicemen will be used to fill all positions created or posts left vacant by Canada's war effort."

They particularly pointed to the city airport, roads in the North West Territories, possible barrack construction and the Empire Air Training Scheme. They alleged that this principle of filling vacancies with ex-servicemen had been neglected in some instances.

The motion was sponsored by George Gleave and seconded by W. A. Irwin.

SOLDIERS' ALLOWANCES

The second resolution sponsored by C. E. Garrepy, called for the establishment by the government of a plan whereby sons enlisted in active service force could contribute towards the support of their parents at home and obtain dependents' allowances for them. The motion passed.

Report by Sid Bowcott, chairman of the membership committee, revealed that the Legion now has 762 paid-up members in the organization, an increase of 51 during the past year.

W. Paddy Griffin reported on the activities of the "sick and visiting" committee; W. A. Irwin on entertainment; W. A. White on bylaws; Lt.-Col. Louis Scott on publicity, George Gleave on finance; J. MacLean on sports and cricket.

In his report Mr. Gleave stated that the assets of the organization exceeded liabilities by $10,808 and that during 1939 they had had an operating surplus of $5,041. Poppy campaign had brought in $2,311, with more than 50,000 poppies being sold. Sales were $700 greater than 1938.

Tribute was paid to the late Lt.-Col. T. C. Sims and C. S. Kilgour, members.

FARMER UNITY IS PLEA MADE U.F.A. PARLEY

Canadian farmers must unite in a strong organization to which governments will listen if they wish to have their economic grievances remedied, George G. Coote, former U.F.A. member of parliament for Macleod constituency and now secretary of the Canadian Chamber of Agriculture, advised the U.F.A. convention Thursday afternoon at the Macdonald hotel.

Mr. Coote said that although one-third of the people of Canada are on farms, farmers obtain only one-twelfth of the national income. "Farmers must organize if they want this situation to be changed," Mr. Coote declared.

Suggesting that a "marketing act" should be put into operation, whereby commodity boards would be set up to assist in the orderly marketing of farm products, Mr. Coote declared that such an act would prove beneficial to farmers in all parts of Canada.

He added that a marketing conference held in Eastern Canada some months ago had approved of the marketing act principle.

Attempts had been made at the last session of the federal parliament to have such commodity boards organized, but they had proved unavailing.

Former Concert Singer Commits Suicide With Gas

GLENDALE, Calif., Jan. 19— Marjorie Templeton, 41-year-old former concert singer apparently heartsick over long separation from her British movie executive husband, piped gas from a bathroom jet into a quilt fashioned hoodlike over her head. Her body was found in her apartment Wednesday night.

GRITS TO TALK ORGANIZATION HERE SATURDAY

Provincial executive of the Alberta Liberal Association will meet in the Macdonald hotel Saturday afternoon, January 20, to discuss party organization.

As this is likely to be the last executive meeting before the provincial electioneering takes place, it is probable that a thorough review of party matters will be made.

Robert Barrowman, of Leth bridge, president of the Alberta Liberal Association, will be chairman at the meeting. Liberal leader E. L. Gray also will attend the conference.

Author Joins Army

Vice-president of the Edmonton branch of the Canadian Authors' association and a poet and author in his own right, V. Northcote-Marsh has joined the Edmonton Regiment's reinforcement until now taking infantry training at Calgary. He served overseas with the famed London Scottish Regiment in the first Great War, and was a former member of the Edmonton Fusiliers.

Presbyterian Church Reports Good Progress

Board of Strathcona Presbyterian church was increased from 10 to 12 and the following new members elected at the annual meeting held Wednesday: Dr. John Buie, C. H. Chambers, G. W. Harriett and Rich and Dinwoodie. A. Hyde and F. Allen retired and A. Beaton was re-elected.

Membership increased during the past year, 54 was raised by various church organizations, and increased activity in the Sunday school was reported. Vote of thanks was passed for the work of Rev. and Mrs. R. J. Burton. Rev. William Simons spoke on behalf of the Edmonton Presbytery. W. G. Barham acted as chairman.

Debt Reduction Is Reported At Baptist Church

The past year was a year of progress at Strathcona Baptist church, reports given at the annual meeting Wednesday night indicated.

Among the highlights of the years activities were installation of an electric organ, improvement of church property, reduction of the debt, and the addition of 27 new names to the roll of members.

New officers of the church elected are: Mark Robertson, deacon; Mrs. Chester Martin, church clerk, Hon. J. C. Bowen, lieutenant-governor, spoke briefly commending the work of Rev. S. M. Hittle and the record of the church. George A. Clayton acted as chairman of the meeting.

Sinking In Big Pay Pays Farmer Red

SO much documentary red tape was involved that it is only now that the rank and file of the baseball world is beginning to understand the principles that fired Comissioner Landis into stripping the Detroit Tigers of 90 odd players last week with slash of his dictatorial pen.

The Detroit chiefs are feeling very low about the whole thing, but the players are starting to bat their eyes and ask each other if it is the dawn of a new day for players they see breaking over the commissioner's office.

Rightly or wrongly, the players take it that the judge is crusading to get them a fair deal in baseball and their innate fear of this stern-faced czar seems to be turning to friendly sympathy. Ever since Landis took office as supreme dictator of baseball, there has been a provision that any player not satisfied with a salary offer could appeal the matter to the commissioner.

The boys have been mighty leary of that provision however. The great majority of them have always had a hunch that if a player appealed to Landis, he would be more or less boycotted by all clubs if he lost his appeal. It was figured something like howling to the teacher. Now the players are beginning to think that maybe they have been overlooking a mighty good bet in not making more use of this appeal clause.

Right now there seem to be plenty of appeals in the making as the major leagues start signing up men. Dizzy Dean may drop in on the judge and tell him a tale of woe centering around the Cubs' request that he take a $10,000 cut this season. Then there is Zeke Bonura, the banana king of New Orleans, who led the Giants in hitting and runs batted in last year and whose 1940 contract calls for $4,000 less than the $15,000 he was paid a year ago. Red Wolfe of the Yanks is also getting fixed for a rebellion. He announces that anything less than $18,000 will be the signal for a revolt. Yank contracts are being mailed out to the players this week.

As if they haven't got enough grief already, the Detroit Tigers are likely to run into a loud and bitter argument with Hank Greenberg when they try to sign him up again. It's all on account of this guy Joe DiMaggio. Greenberg was getting close to $30,000 last year and he is very insistent on keeping ahead of DiMaggio in the matter of pay received. Joe got $25,000 last season and is due for a raise that is likely to bring his pay above the $30,000 mark.

Sometimes you may feel that it is ridiculous to pay an athlete money in these figures, but actually it is good for the game, good for the country and very beneficial to the player. In the United States and Canada we are prone to estimate calibre by the amount of pay it demands. The fan feels a far greater attraction to see players who he knows are drawing $25,000 and $30,000 than he does to see dubs drawing $1,500. These princely salaries gild a glamour on the major leagues. They establish the game as big time, prosperous and generous—the things that we all secretly admire. Big salaries are a form of advertising that pays big returns.

Thees Red, He's Smart Habitant!

DOWN in Montreal the hockey crowd is chuckling today after Red Goupille's discovery of how to make money on a farm. Red is a 200-pound defenceman for the Canadiens and he has a habitant accent. Bob Clarke of the Canadian Press tells of Red's amazing discovery in agricultural economics as follows:

"It is from a far counin that I buy the farm," Red grins. "It is one helluva big place with three barns. My cousin has too much trouble in paying taxes so he says 'Red, you want to buy my farm?' and I think maybe it is a good idea.

"Two summers ago, when I have nothing to do after playing hockey I spend too much money. Nearly $2,000. So I say 'Red, this is just the thing you need. Buy a farm and save some money.' All last summer I work on the farm and only spend $260. And by gosh, I have a chance to sell my farm for $1,500 more than I pay my cousin."

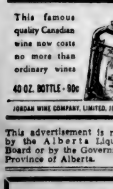

Good-natured Red doesn't mind getting up with the chickens and pitching in on the farm work, although he has three helpers, but as boss, he'll often declare his own knocking-off time.

"I go out and work hard one day and it makes me tired. So I quit. My Dad, he says, 'Red, we still have a lot of hay to put in the barns, but I say, 'Dad, I am tired.' So I let the hay go until the next day."

Two of the Goupille barns are 75-foot affairs while the other is a 100-footer. Always the businessman, Red is shrewd enough to capitalize on the reputation that he enjoys as the village's No. 1 hero.

"On the week-end the farmers come into the village and they have no place to put their horses and buggies," he says. "Well, I have lots of place in my stables. I charge them 15 cents to park their horses. Some week-ends I make as much as $5 like this."

All-expense air tours may soon be available, provided they include 20 per cent surface travel.

VIKING, Jan. 19.—The sixth annual Viking bonspiel was a great success with nine visiting rinks and eleven local rinks entered. The J. L. Slavik rink, skipped by J. L. Slavik and composed of his two sons and a brother Frank went through the spiel without a loss to capture the grand challenge, the Northwestern Utilities and the grand aggregate.

The Billy Rose rink from Sedgewick did not fare so well this year, going down to defeat by two local rinks, Loader and Clandfield.

List of winners in each event is as follows:

Grand Challenge: Slavik, Viking, 1st; Clandfield, Viking, 2nd; Hilliker, Viking, 3rd; Billy Rose, Sedgewick, 4th.

N. W. Utilities: Slavik 1st; Berreth, Hardisty, 2nd; Thunell, Viking, 3rd; Runyon, Viking, 4th.

Irma continued its winning streak in the gas line league when they defeated Viking at Viking on Saturday to the tune of 6 to 0, and again at Irma on Monday evening 6 to 3. The junior hockey team is sponsoring a dance January 19th to raise funds for travelling expenses.

ANNOUNCING that he signed Goalie Ken McAuley of the Maple Leaf Juniors to training school tryout agreement and that he planned to operate a spring training school here April 1 to 8, President Bill Tobin of the Chicago Black Hawks completed his whirlwind, three-day attack on Edmonton amateur hockey ranks here Thursday and left on the night plane for Chicago.

Tobin also announced that he was working on a plan to bring the Black Hawks here in April for a game against any team selected by Edmonton amateur officials. This game would be played here after all playoffs were finished so far as Edmonton is concerned.

Signing of McAuley was on the same basis as Dave MacKay was signed the previous day. The Maple Leaf ace is under no obligation except to attend the Hawk school next fall. If he is found satisfactory, he will then be offered a playing contract. In the event he is rejected or is not satisfied with the contract offered, he may continue as an amateur without his standing being affected in any way.

This product of the Maple Leaf machine is generally conceded the best goalie to come up in junior ranks in Edmonton for seven or eight years. He is 18 years old at present and is playing his second season with the Maple Leaf Juniors. He graduated to them from the Maple Leaf Juveniles.

In announcing his plan for a spring training school here, Tobin explained he wanted to see prospects when they were in peak condition, rather than in the fall before they had found their ice legs.

Details of the proposed exhibition game by Chicago Hawks have yet to be worked out.

Comiskey Heirs to Fight Sale of Chicago White Sox

CHICAGO, Jan. 19.—Heirs of the late J. Louis Comiskey today began a fight to prevent sale of Chicago White Sox as demanded by the First National Bank of Chicago, executor of Comiskey's estate. The litigation may require months.

Comiskey died July 18, 1939, leaving his estate in trust.

Attorneys for the bank filed a petition in probate court requesting permission to sell the American Baseball League club, which its founder, Charles A. Comiskey, established 40 years ago without investing a cent, and subsequently gained into a $2,000,000 property.

The bank based its action on a clause in the Comiskey will which gives the trustees permission to sell if, in their opinion, it is "prudent and desirable."

Mrs. Grace Comiskey, the widow, through her attorney, declared the bank's move would be contested. The hearing was set for Feb. 29.

There are 7,450 shares of White Sox stock, each of $100 par value. Harry Grabiner, secretary of the club, owns 50 shares. Mrs. Comiskey was willed half of the remaining shares and the other half was divided among her three children — Dorothy, 22; Gracie Lou, 18, and Charles, 13.

The widow contended the sale was contrary to the wish of J. Louis Comiskey, who expressed the desire in his will that none of the stock be sold until his only son attained the age of 30.

Mac Scores Lone Goal: Neil Assists

MONTREAL, Jan. 19.—A goal by Mack Colville less than three minutes from the end of the third period, gave New York Rangers a 1-0 victory last night over Montreal Canadiens and sent the Manhattan Blue Shirts into a first place tie in the National Hockey League standing with the idle Boston Bruins.

The goal came from a scramble in front of the Montreal net just after the Rangers had been badly outplayed through nearly a five-minute stretch by the Habitants, who have managed to pick up only two victories in their last 17 starts.

The defeat dropped Canadiens into a sixth place tie with Detroit Red Wings who tied Toronto Maple Leafs 2-2.

The contest also marked this season's debut as an official of Orbie Wilcox, former Montreal Maroons defenceman, who handled the game with Bill Stewart.

Leafs Need Rally To Tie Detroit

TORONTO, Jan. 19.—Detroit Red Wings moved out of the National Hockey League cellar here last night when they gained a 2-2 tie with Toronto Maple Leafs. The tie placed the Wings one point up on the last place New York Americans.

A crowd of 9,470 fans saw Leafs stage a third period rally after spotting the Wings two goals in the second. The tying goal was a weird one and came when the Detroit club was short-handed.

Five seconds before Cecil Dillon was due to return from the penalty box, Bingo Kampman wafted a shot from just inside the Detroit blue line. The puck skuzzled the crossbar of the Detroit net and as Thompson fell to the ice, it dropped behind the goal line.

Wings hit their stride late in the second. Gus Giesebrecht speared a loose puck in the Leaf zone to charge in and open the scoring. He drove a waist high shot past Phil Stein, who made his debut as a league goalie, after years of stardom in the minors.

Less than four minutes later Syd Howe took a perfect pass from Ken Kilrea on a breakaway and gave Stein little chance.

Gus Marker was credited with the first Toronto goal as he deflected a shot by Kampman from well out.

TWO-TON TONY SEEKING ONLY GREAT GLORY

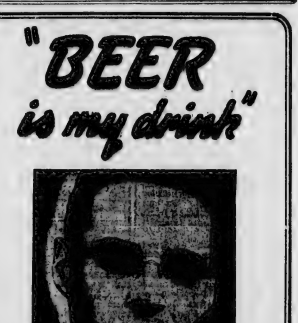

ORANGE, N. J., Jan. 19.—Two-ton Tony Galento, still No. 1 challenger for Joe Louis' heavyweight crown, plumped his 240 pounds on a bar stool in his saloon Thursday and said his only interest in boxing was the glory it offered.

"I've got a few bucks," he said, "I don't have to worry about money, but I'm gonna murder that Maxie Baer and then meet Joe Louis in June. I want the championship, but only for the glory of it."

New York's boxing commission refused yesterday to issue a license to Galento's manager, Joe (Yussel) Jacobs, after Promoter Mike Jacobs tentatively set March 4 for a Galento-Baer fight in Madison Square Garden.

"Them guys on the New York Commission gave me a pain in the neck." Galento said. "I don't care where I fight Baer. He's only a tuneup for me. I knocked out Lou Nova and Nova had knocked out Baer, don't forget. Baer was scared to meet me and he's still scared."

CAMROSE, Jan. 19. — Camrose Maroons administered a smashing defeat to the fast-stepping Lacombe Athletics here last night as they registered a 10-5 win against the visiting southerners. The win boosted Camrose from fourth place into a tie for second place with the Lacombe club.

Tempers flared during the game with Goalie Stewart of Lacombe becoming so huffy that he left his goal and quit the game cold in the third frame. Stewart claimed he had been pushed into the net, and when Referee Charlie Lewis of Lacombe and judge-of-play Tho. Detroit Football Squad Is Sold

PALM SPRINGS, Cal., Jan. 19—G. A. Richards, owner of the Detroit Lions, announced that he had sold the professional football team to a Chicago syndicate. Richards said he decided to sell the team because of his continued ill health.

A new oil spray gun has been developed especially to remove caked grease and oil from airplane engines and other complex equipment.

Medico Welders Hope To Gain on Card Squad

MEDICO WELDERS, showing great improvement as they held the crack Varsity Bears to an overtime win, will be gunning for valuable points tonight at the Arena when they meet the Garrison. Welders are four points back of the second place Cardinals and a win will put them right on the Card heels, a position they are really after. The game starts at 8:30 p.m.

Welders have shown a better fighting spirit in their last trips out. That kind of spirit has brought the goals and with second place not too far distant the Welders are out to close that gap.

On the other hand the Garrison club has gone winless in their four starts. On occasion they have had ill luck. It may be their turn to get under way, but it's to be a stiff battle before the smoke clears at the east-end arena tonight.

Boulder Prevents Train From Falling Into Deep Canyon

PRINCE RUPERT, B.C., Jan. 19. —Details of a Tuesday night train wreck in the Skagway river canyon, seven miles out of Skagway, Alaska, were recounted here yesterday by two dozen passengers, some of them injured, who boarded a boat for Vancouver.

The passengers said a huge boulder, lying beside the Whitepass and Yukon Route Railway tracks where a baggage and passenger car were derailed, prevented the entire train from toppling 300 feet to the bottom of the canyon.

The two cars were turned on their sides and most persons in the passenger car suffered minor injuries, of here.

Glenora Ice Pageant Will Run Three Nights

THE colorful story of Ali Baba and the Forty Thieves, the saga of a gay young blade on the loose in old Bagdad, will be the theme of the Glenora Skating Club's annual ice extravaganza this winter—three full nights of brilliant skating and pageantry at the Arena, February 22, 23, 24, Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Expanded from a two-night show to three performances, the presentation will be bigger in every way. Glenora Club officials announced as they launched their advance ticket sale today.

Last year's extravaganza, the Pied Piper of Hamlin, was the first complete pantomime to be produced by a skating club. This year Glenora will pioneer again and attempt something that has never been done anywhere before. It will present 20 minutes of continuous skating and music in the brilliant scene in which Ali Baba enters the treasure cave.

The thousands of regular patrons of these spectacular ice shows are urged to forward their applications for seats at once to 204 Agency Building, Edmonton, since this will be a major help to the carnival committee in putting over the costly and detailed presentation and also assure the patrons of getting satisfactory seats. Full details of ticket prices and a plan of the seating arrangement are carried in an ad on page 13 of this issue of The Edmonton Bulletin.

Among the imported feature skaters will be the Caley Sisters of Toronto who are rated the world's best pair skaters bar none. They appeared here last winter and their return will be eagerly looked forward to.

Legal Notices—

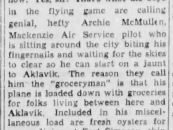

NOTICE

In the estate of CHARLES LOUIS WITTMANN, late of Edmonton, Furrier, deceased.

Notice is hereby given that all persons having claims upon the estate of the above named CHARLES LOUIS WITTMANN, who died on the 10th day of December, A.D. 1939, are required to file with BISHOP and BISHOP by the 1st day of March, 1940, a full statement duly verified of their claims and of any securities held by them, and that after that date the executors will distribute the assets of the deceased among the parties entitled thereto having regard only to the claims of which notice has been so filed or which have been brought to their knowledge.

DATED this 19th day of January, A.D. 1940.

BISHOP & BISHOP,
Solicitors for the executors, etc.
Address, Bank of Toronto Bldg., Edmonton, Alta.

They call him "The Grocerynan," now. Yes, sir! That's what the boys in the flying game are calling genial, hefty Archie McMullen, Mackenzie Air Service pilot who is sifting around the city biting his fingernails and waiting for the skies to clear so he can start on a jaunt to Aklavik. The reason they call him the "grocerynan" is that his plane is loaded down with groceries for folks living between here and Aklavik. Included in his miscellaneous load are fresh oysters for a man living at Fort Simpson, skin treatener for a lady at Norman Wells, medicine for the hospital at Aklavik and fresh eggs for Fort Norman.

Autos Stolen

Two automobiles were stolen in the city overnight, police said Friday. Don Porter, of McNeil's taxi, reported his car had been stolen from in front of the Kensington apartments on 109 street, and Fred Werner, of 10046 118 street, reported his auto stolen from the garage behind his home.

WEIR EXPLAINS PRINCIPLES OF PEOPLE'S LAW

Anglo-Saxons Planned To Protect Individual Liberty

People's rights under the ancient Anglo-saxon principle of "the rule of law" are not defined by statute, stated Dean John A. Weir, of the Alberta law faculty, addressing a dinner meeting of the Men's Club, Robertson church, Thursday, but rather are the laws designed to give the utmost liberty to the subject which can only be taken away through action of an individual which would infringe on the rights of others.

The "rule of law" principle is peculiar to the Anglo-system of law, he stated, and the law of this principle in international law today is probably responsible for the present war crisis.

Under the "rule of law" the people have their rights protected and enforced by specific rules of law in courts administered impartially.

FUNDAMENTAL RIGHTS

In the English system there is no lengthy recitation of the rights of the people. There is no mention of free speech, right of assembly or other fundamental rights enjoyed.

The protection of these rights are come when a subject endeavors to interfere with the rights of another. Thus there is no law concerning the right of assembly, but there is nothing to prevent the holding of an assembly provided the assembly does not trespass, or the acts done at the assembly do not transgress against against the laws of the country.

The right of free speech prevails up to the point that the subject keeps within the confines of decency, but if he steps across that line then the law of libel or laws against the use of obscene language may be brought to bear against him, or the sedition charges of the criminal code may be invoked.

Freedom of the person is protected by the Habeas Corpus Act, continued Dean Weir.

IS THANKED

Ronald Maitland, Edmonton barrister, in moving a vote of thanks to Dean Weir, voiced the affection in which he was held by all students of the law faculty. Cecil Outhet Horace Harvey, seconding the motion, said the University of Alberta was fortunate in having Dean Weir as head of the faculty. He said he was not surpassed by any dean in Canada and doubted if any equalled him.

Frank Pike acted as chairman of the meeting. Musical numbers were provided by G. A. Kevan and "Pat" Blackstock.

Justice For Defeated Is Stated Need

Canada should be on guard against the possibility of a nationalistic, self-sufficiency peace being sought after the war is on, Mackie H. G. L. Strange, head of the Searle Grain company's research department, told a joint meeting of the Canadian Club and the Chamber of Commerce on Thursday.

Peace will have to be founded on international good will and economic justice must be given to the defeated nations, he said. The natural resources of every country must be made available to all the other countries of the world, he said.

He forecast that Great Britain at war would buy a large quantity of Canada's wheat and would insist on paying a fair price for it. If it believed that a fair price under present conditions was from $1.16 to $1.29 a bushel for Canadian wheat.

Merchandise Class

Edmonton Technical School's merchandising class, conducted by John Keller, advertising manager for the Hudson's Bay Company here, visited the Edmonton City Bakery Thursday evening. The tour of the plant was conducted by Harvey Kagna, manager, and T. Buttner, plant superintendent. Superintendent Buttnor explained the uses and purposes of the many new modern baking appliances which have been installed recently in the plant.

A total of 1,783,227 rims were inspected in one month by the Tire and Rim Association, Inc.

Prophets Claim Weather Future Looking Better

Moderately cold with snow is the early forecast for the week-end and judging by Friday morning the weatherman is hitting on all cylinders. Snow continued to fall from a heavily overcast sky Friday morning after a light but steady snowfall throughout Thursday in which .03 inches were recorded. Maximum temperature Thursday was 5 above and the low mark 3 below.

In the near north all reports reported overcast skies with occasional light skiffs of snow. The thermometer was rising everywhere and Hudson Hope was the coldest spot at 11 below. The mercury was also taking an upward course in the far north and the majority of places reported the mercury above the zero mark.

Incorporation Of Insurance Company Is Sought In Bill

Receipt of an application for permission to introduce a private bill at the legislative session opening Feb. 15 was announced Thursday by R. A. Andiam, clerk of the legislative assembly.

The application has been forwarded by K. Marsh, M. MacKenzie and L. T. McLandress of Calgary, to incorporate an insurance company to be known as the "Western Union Insurance Company, Ltd."

The company proposes to insure "against the perils of fire, sprinkler leakage, use and occupancy, rent, theft, riot and civil commotion, explosion, tornado, steam boiler, automobile, inland transportation, inland marine, transit, parcel post, tourist baggage, registered mail, accident and sickness, burglary, bond, guarantee, forgery, plate glass, liability, livestock and hail."

Last date for filing applications for private bills is Feb. 5, after which date a daily penalty will be imposed for bills seeking introduction at the session.

One Hip Pocket

BRESLAU, Germany, Jan. 19. — So long as the war lasts one hip pocket, instead of the customary two, is the limit imposed on tailors for the making of trousers, according to the head of the local Tailors' Guild.

Heart Attack Fatal

R. H. Found, 55, who was found dead in his room in a house owned by Mrs. W. E. Moore, of 10735 107 street, at 8:15 p.m. Wednesday evening, died of a heart attack, Dr. E. A. Braithwaite, provincial coroner, told police. Mr. Found is survived by his wife and four sons, Sherman "Mickey" of Winnipeg and Dwight, Donald and Nathan of Edmonton. "Mickey" Found is a Trans-Canada Airways pilot. Funeral arrangements are in charge of Foster and McGarvey.

A device, making use of infrared rays, is being developed to enable pilots to see through fog.

BLOOD CLOT IS SAID CAUSE OF MURRAY DEATH

Alex F. Murray, 65, of 9934 106 street, died in hospital in Edmonton Jan. 8, as the result of a clot of blood resulting from injuries he received when struck by an auto driven by Harold Love near the intersection of 104 street on 100 avenue about 11:30 p.m. Dec. 11, a coroner's jury found Thursday.

The inquest was held in the city police court Thursday afternoon under the direction of Provincial Coroner Dr. E. A. Braithwaite.

Only eye-witness of the crash, Joseph Shaw, of the Victoria apartments, told the jury the accident occurred when the back of Love's auto was about 15 feet east of the east sidewalk at the intersection of 104 street and 100 avenue.

Constable A. Johnston of the city police told the jury that Love's car left skid marks 44 feet long. Shaw estimated its speed at 20 to 25 miles per hour.

Dr. A. Blais, physician attending Murray, said that Murray was about ready to leave hospital when death occurred. Dr. J. F. McGregor, who performed the post mortiem, said that a large clot of blood had formed around the fracture received at the time of the accident, and that part of this clot had broken away and plugged off the blood supply to the lungs, causing death.

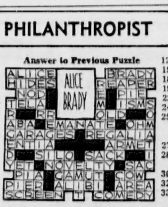

Jurymen were: J. W. Parks, foreman, W. K. MacDonald, Robert Fletcher, George H. McKeever, John Colville, P. W. Jean.
